BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Chancellor Stresemann's strongest and most convincing argument for giving up passive resistance was that it was costing eight quadrillion paper marks weekly. This figure astounded all his hearers, even the most Nationalistic. Accordingly, the conference of the German Minister Presidents with the Chancellor this morning, lasting two hours, agreed outwardly at least to give up passive resistance chiefly for financial reasons.

The Minister Presidents added, however, that passive resistance must be given up "in a manner consonant with the dignity and honor of the German nation."

The Stresemann Government having failed formal support for the formula of the "inevitable giving up of passive resistance with honor and dignity, but without capitulation or surrender."

The Chancellor this afternoon received party leaders who too approved the formula with the exception of German Nationals who all along held out stubbornly. In fact, the German National Party leader came out theoretically, not only for not giving up passive resistance but keeping it up "with stronger means." He didn't, however, betray the secret what, if anything, he and his fellow-Nationalists proposed to fight with.

This evening the Council of State met, presided over by President Ebert. The Chancellor and all the Cabinet members were present for the purpose of a final and official decision to give up passive resistance and draft a proclamation to the German people. This republican "Crown Council" is still sitting late tonight. There are reported difficulties of formulating the exact verbiage, and particularly finer shadings of stylistic nuances for pleasing Bavaria and the nationalists of Pomerania, Mecklenburg, Silesia, Westphalia and other hardy reactionaries.

The Chancellor will appear before the Foreign Relations Committee of the Reichstag tomorrow afternoon and thereafter the proclamation, if agreed on, may be sprung on the German people, the overwhelming majority of whom do not give a rap and are more interested in the price of American fats, margarine, potatoes and sausage.

The important fact is that if it is costing eight quadrillion marks weekly to finance the Ruhr resistance, it will cost even more to finance the discontinuance of Ruhr resistance for some weeks or month to come, since the Ruhr and Rhineland credits must and will be kept up during the "demobilization" period.

Will Oppose Separatists.

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—It was officially announced this afternoon that the Premiers of the German Federated States at their conference with Chancellor Stresemann today unanimously agreed to abandonment of the passive resistance program, but at the same time expressed determination firmly to safeguard the unity of the country.

An official communique issued after the meeting said:

"The Prime Ministers of the States of the German Reich deliberated this morning with the Cabinet of the Reich upon the question of ending the passive resistance. The representatives of the States, after an exposé by the Chancellor, made known their opinions:

"There was complete unanimity upon the decision that passive resistance must cease, for reasons of interior politics, and especially the country's finances. The opinion was also unanimous that it was the intention as well as the duty of the central government to end the passive resistance in a manner conformable with the dignity and honor of the German people.

"All those entrusted with power in the German States have declared that, if an attempt were made to impair the unity of the Reich, they are firmly resolved to safeguard and defend this unity as the unimpeachable right of the nation."

Reichstag circles claim to be uninformed whether the Chancellor has been given direct or indirect assurances that his voluntary and unconditional relinquishment of passive resistance will be reciprocated by a concession on points of honor.

Government headquarters continue optimistic with respect to the maintenance of order and dismiss as unfounded recurring rumors of impending disorders. If such occur their mainsprings, officials point out, must be sought in the social conditions prevailing in the metropolitan and industrial sectors.

The present Cabinet is considered to have strongly fortified itself against

Receipts Rise $200,000,000 Under the Fordney Tariff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The higher duties of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law combined with increases in imports to boost customs receipts more than $200,000,000 in the first year of its operation over receipts in the last twelve months the Underwood tariff was in operation.

Figures compiled today at the Treasury showed total income from customs levies for the twelve months ending Sept. 22 to have been $564,541,621. The duties under the Underwood law for the year ending Sept. 22, 1922, produced slightly less than $360,000,000.

SOFIA ADMITS PERIL FROM RED UPRISING

Says Bulgar Suppression Is Difficult, as Revolt Is Most General in the Mountains.

PLEADS FOR LARGER ARMY

Tells Allies Present Force Cannot Control Situation—Fear Invasion by Yugoslavia.

PARIS, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—The official version of the situation in Bulgaria, as set forth in dispatches received by the Bulgarian Legation here this morning, is as follows:

"The Soviet movement is scattered, being confined to small settlements, among which there is no cohesion and which have little power of resistance. The work of suppression is very difficult, however, because the movement is most general in the mountainous regions, and the small Bulgarian army has insufficient strength to deal with such scattered uprisings over a widespread area.

"When troops are able to reach the scene of an outbreak, the Communists surrender immediately, and generally it is not necessary for the soldiers to use violence.

"The life of the Soviet régime in the localities where it has been established has been between two and fourteen hours in length.

"Northern Bulgaria is now the region most affected. The Soviets in the south appear to have been discouraged by the prompt action at asserting power. Their last attempt at asserting power was when they cut the communications between Sofia and Constantinople, but these lines have been re-established and order has been restored.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Bulgarian Legation here made public today a cable message received from the Premier at Sofia saying that the Communist movement in Bulgaria new centres in the northwestern part of the country, but that necessary measures of pacification have been taken. The dispatch, which was dated yesterday, said:

"In Southern Bulgaria almost everywhere the Communist movement has been suppressed. In Northern Bulgaria attempts have been made here and there, but without any particular significance. The centre of the movement now is in Northwestern Bulgaria, where the Communist disposes with considerable numbers of people, but the Government has taken necessary measures for the pacification of that region also."

Ferdinandovo Is Invested.

SOFIA, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Order has been restored in a majority of the disturbed districts of Bulgaria, says a semi-official statement issued today. The only important centre where the Communists have not been subdued is Ferdinandovo, but oppressive measures are proceeding.

The statement adds that several chiefs

CABINET DISCUSSES FARM FREIGHT CUTS TO AID THE FARMER

Secretary Wallace Urges 25 Per Cent. Rail Reduction as Necessary Step.

BLAMES THE GOVERNMENT

Head of Agriculture Department Insists on Prompt Action in Crisis.

WHEAT INCREASE NOT LIKED

Coolidge Will Confer With Western Men Tomorrow on Measures for Relief.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Wallace told President Coolidge and his Cabinet colleagues today that the Government was partly responsible for the present agricultural depression and, therefore, it was up to the Government to try to do something to remedy the situation. He proposed, for one thing, a reduction of at least 25 per cent. in freight rates, especially on agricultural products intended for export.

The Cabinet discussed this matter at length, together with the suggestion that the present tariff on wheat should be increased.

In his report to the President Secretary Wallace declared the reduction of freight rates should be made "without further delay," and added that the entire structure of rates should be analyzed.

The great trouble with agriculture, Mr. Wallace contended, was that there were no fair relationships between agriculture on the one hand and industry, commerce and labor on the other. There had been advances in other things, but agriculture had suffered, due, he believed, to the war and post-war attitude of the Government, which placed a responsibility on the Government to do something in agriculture's behalf.

Government policies, according to Secretary Wallace's showing, "had no little part in bringing about the distorted relationship between prices for agricultural products and prices for other things which is at the root of our troubles now."

Sees Higher Scale Permanent.

In a statement given out by Secretary Wallace part of his report is summarized as follows:

"If, as seems evident, we must admit ourselves to be on a permanently higher scale of industrial wages, and consequently higher cost of production in industry as well as agriculture, abnormal relationship can be restored only by bringing agricultural prices up to somewhere near the level of other prices. The most hopeful prospect is the establishment by the Government of an agricultural export commission or corporation with broad powers."

Mr. Wallace expressed himself as in favor of making an effort to establish such a corporation, but he did not present suggestions for its organization. He said that so far as exporters of agricultural products find themselves at a disadvantage in dealing with foreign countries because rates of exchange or opportunities for exchange of commodities favor foreign competitors, they should be helped by a Government agency to make easier credit conditions on American purchases.

It was urged by the Secretary that agriculture should be treated as a whole by the Government in seeking to find a remedy for the depression in certain farm products. Just now, he said, wheat was the centre of attention because of the ruinously low prices. Not long since, he pointed out, cotton and wool were in a similar state, and only two

Macready to Attempt New Altitude Record, Using Invention Doubling Power of Engine

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Lieutenant John A. Macready, whose altitude record of 34,509 feet, held until two weeks ago when Sadi Lecointe, the French flier, set an official record of 35,715 feet, will attempt a new altitude record this Fall, probably next month. A new invention, which Lieutenant Macready will use, may make it possible for him to set an absolute record for altitude in an airplane. His flight will be made at McCook Field, near Dayton.

This new invention, a new turbine supercharger, or engine oxygen booster, has been designed and built by the General Electric Company especially for extreme altitude operation. It is rated to feed sea level atmospheric pressure to the engine at a height of 35,000 feet, or about twice the rating of the supercharger used by Lieutenant Macready in his previous record flight. This is being built at McCook Field, and engineers are busy preparing for its installation on a plane.

The supercharger is a small contrivance mounted just back of the propeller blade of the plane on the front end of the Liberty motor. It is operated from the red hot exhaust of the airplane motor, which ordinarily goes to waste. It weighs about 140 pounds, which might be considered a handicap in altitude flying but for the fact that at 35,000 feet its operation will increase the power of the Liberty motor by at least 200 horsepower, or about 2 horsepower for each additional pound carried.

A supercharged plane at 1,000 feet, making 120 miles per hour, can make about 150 miles at altitudes over 20,000 feet, whereas a plane without a supercharger can make 121 miles at 1,000 feet but only 70 miles per hour at 20,000 feet. This shows that although there is a small loss in speed at low altitude there is a decided gain at high altitude.

The atmospheric pressure at 35,000 feet altitude is about one-fourth, and the density about one-third, that at sea level. The temperature is 69 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. To supply the airplane engine its normal air at sea level pressure, the supercharger is designed to compress about 2,300 cubic feet of atmosphere per minute. To accomplish this, high rotational speed is necessary. The new supercharger has a rated speed of 33,000 revolutions per minute, but in tests at the Lynn works of the General Electric Company it was operated up to 41,000 revolutions per minute, or 683 turns of the compressor wheel a second, a speed greater than ever before developed by a commercial machine.

Any object revolving at this terrific speed has an enormous centrifugal pull and Dr. B. A. Moss, the designer in tests has determined that if a one pound weight, with its centre of gravity located at the centre of gravity of the supercharger blades, was revolved at 41,000 revolutions per minute its centrifugal force would be 222,000 pounds, or 111 tons. The blade of the machine, however, weighs but nine nine one-thousandths of a pound, and the centrifugal force per blade in the supercharger is, therefore, about 2,000 pounds.

An ordinary airplane can mount to about 21,000 feet.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO STRIKING PRESSMEN

THE NEW YORK TIMES, through the Publishers' Association of New York City, having entered into a permanent contract with the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union, former employes of this newspaper who desire to return to work should file application at the offices of the International Union, Rooms 614-617, 150 Nassau Street, which is the only source from which cards will be issued.

It must be understood that such re-employment will be under the terms of the contract entered into with the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union, with which all pressmen are familiar.

The invitation, sent throughout the country, by the Publishers Association of New York and the International Pressmen's Union, inviting web pressmen to come to this city and guaranteeing permanent employment to all competent men who do come, has already brought many such men to the city. More will come in the next few days.

It is therefore plain that opportunities for the striking pressmen to return are diminishing in the same ratio that satisfactory new men are engaged.

However, so long as all positions vacated by the strikers have not been filled, the most friendly consideration will be given to former employes who present themselves at the pressroom equipped with International cards.

As the new men now being employed are guaranteed permanent employment if they prove satisfactory, it is obvious that we will be unable to take back all our former employes.

PROPOSE SELECTION IN IMMIGRANT LAW

Secretary Davis and Representative Johnson Prepare a Bill With Lower Quota.

2 PER CENT. OF 1890 CENSUS

Measure Also Suggests Putting Inspectors on All Vessels Bringing Newcomers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A new immigration law which will authorize the yearly admission of 2 per cent. of each national group of aliens in the United States when the 1890 census was taken is now being worked out by Representative Albert Johnson, Chairman of the House Immigration Committee, and James J. Davis, the Secretary of Labor, and will be introduced in the next Congress.

In addition to the 2 per cent. allowed on the basis indicated, another 2 per cent. on the basis of blood relatives of persons already here will be admitted if the bill goes through Congress. Under the bill it is believed that the quotas from Russia and a few other countries would be sharply cut, but that, on the other hand, immigration from the North European countries would be increased.

One feature of the bill provides that questionnaires, furnished by American consuls abroads and filled in by prospective immigrants, will serve as a basis for determining whether the alien will receive a quota certificate enabling him to travel to the United States on any ship within six months. If he can pass the physical and other tests at the American immigration stations he will be admitted.

In order to perfect a system of selective immigration, Representative Johnson advocates placing American health officers and immigration inspectors on American vessels to make the necessary examinations during the voyage. This idea may not be in consonance with existing treaties, and if this should prove to be the case it will be abandoned.

The bill will also demand a reconsideration of the naturalization laws, Chinese exclusion act, immigration laws and other statutes pertaining to the subject of immigration. There are some irritating provisions now in the law.

Still another provision of the bill will establish a system whereby aliens having quota certificates will have to enter the United States within a six months period, and whereby other aliens who have taken out first papers will receive a sort of passport if they visit their homelands. Today such individuals are able to obtain the protection of neither the American nor their former Government.

Both Secretary Davis and Mr. Johnson are opposed to any attempt to lower immigration restrictions. Mr. Johnson takes the position that although an annual immigration of about 1,000,000 was the real stimulus of the present 3 per cent. law, he will soon be able to prove by figures that the total number of immigrants who entered the United States from Europe, Mexico and Canada during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, was about 800,000 in addition to those smuggled in. Mr. Johnson thinks that about 400,000 annually is all that is necessary.

The proposal of Mr. Johnson to place health officers and immigration inspectors on board American ships will relieve the jam materially at Ellis Island and other stations, it is thought. The Chairman of the Immigration Committee expressed a lack of sympathy today with the recent report of Ambassador Geddes on conditions on the Island. He also said that although immigrants would endure all possible privations in order to reach Ellis Island, they often complained bitterly over anything at the station they did not like.

It is understood that a section of the new bill will be designed to stop the "midnight ship races," which have caused so much comment lately and have caused ill will to the immigrants and to this Government.

PRESSMEN ARRIVE TO AID NEWSPAPERS

Coming In From Many Cities in Response to President Berry's Call.

SOME LOCAL UNION MEN BACK

Berry Explains International's Stand for Arbitration and Says Its Full Power Will Be Used.

Union pressmen from other cities are now steadily reaching New York in response to the message of President George L. Berry of their International Union inviting them to come here "to uphold and maintain the integrity of contract" against the action of the members of New York Web Pressmen's Union 25, now out on an illegal strike, despite the fact that their Union has been dissolved and they themselves ordered back to work by their international officers.

Announcement of the arrival of pressmen from other cities was made yesterday by the representatives of the International Union in charge of the new local headquarters in Room 614-619, 150 Nassau Street. The International Union officials said that men had already arrived from Buffalo, Indianapolis, Syracuse, Boston, Louisville, Minneapolis, Troy and Columbus. One entire press crew of eight men from a Buffalo newspaper, it was announced, were in New York, being available because the publisher of their paper had stopped operating a press.

Word also reached the International officers that one of the best known newspapers in the United States had offered to reduce its pressroom force 15 per cent. and that the offer had been accepted by the International Union. The surplus pressmen are on their way to New York.

Some members of the defunct local 25 have now turned in their union cards to the International Union and have accepted, in return, cards of the International Union, it was also announced by International Union officials yesterday. These men have returned to work.

The publishers, in a statement issued yesterday, made it known that the invitation extended to pressmen in all parts of the country to come to New York "has already brought many such men to the city," and said that "more will come in the next few days."

Foremen Want to Get Back.

The foremen and assistant foremen in the pressrooms whose proposal to return to work if the publishers stopped dealing with Mr. Berry was refused on Monday met again yesterday at Beethoven Hall. The question discussed was how the foremen could return to work. The foremen were anxious to return in a body. After the meeting, one of them said that the situation looked hopeful" for their return within forty-eight hours. He also expressed the hope, however, that the publishers would recognize the dissolved local 25 and eliminate Mr. Berry, a suggestion which the publishers flatly rejected on Monday.

There were approximately fifty present at the meeting of foremen. David Simons, who was the head of the defunct local union, presided.

Mr. Simons was unable to preside at the regular mass meeting of the pressmen in the same hall, and this place was filled by Joseph W. Dooley, Chairman of the Speakers' Committee. The meeting lasted three hours, and afterward Mr. Dooley said: "This is the eighth day of our strike without a single desertion from our ranks. An overflow meeting was held to hear reports of various committees. The Chairman of the Speakers' Committee announced the enthusiastic reception and reports of progress at every union meeting. Liberal donations are being made by all organizations who urge the speakers to advise the men to continue the strike."

The meeting was addressed by former Assemblyman Henry Jaeger and Michael Shugrue of Firemen's Union No. 51.

Stand for 8 Per Cent., Says Berry.

President Berry of the International Union issued the following statement yesterday:

"Now that semi-normal conditions have been established in the newspaper press rooms of New York City and with every assurance that normal conditions will be operative within a few days, I feel it my duty to draw the line so far as the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North

OKLAHOMA TROOPS SERVE SESSION BAN ON ALL LEGISLATORS

Insurgent Members Take Names for Court Test of Adjutant General's Order.

GOVERNOR WIRES COOLIDGE

Answering Plea, Government Will Forbid Use of Federal Buildings for Meeting.

GUARD TOLD TO BE READY

Commander Directs Them to Stop Proposed Assemblage at State House Today.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—A general order issued by Adjutant General B. H. Markham forbidding the convening tomorrow of a special session of the State House of Representatives, was served late today on House members gathering here for the session.

As the order was served, each member asked if he was being served as an individual or as a Legislator. Upon being told the service was in their capacity as Legislators, each asked the name of Major J. L. McCartney, in charge of the service detail, and then took the names of witnesses to the service. This was regarded as indicating that the way was being paved for court action to test the Adjutant General's authority.

Adjutant General Markham also issued a general order to all units of the Oklahoma National Guard on duty declaring that "any attempt of the State Legislature to meet would be illegal and must be stopped."

Appeals to Coolidge and Daugherty.

Governor Walton appealed to President Coolidge and Attorney General Daugherty tonight to use their good offices to prevent members of the Lower House of the Oklahoma Legislature from convening in any Federal building in the State.

The Governor announced that 35,000 men in the State have volunteered for service in the National Guard during the legislative crisis.

He Executive made it plain, however, that he anticipated no necessity for calling the volunteers to duty. Another unit of guardsmen will be brought to Oklahoma City early tomorrow to aid troops already stationed here in blocking the called session of the Legislature at noon, the Governor added, but declined to say what battery had been called.

Copies of the order forbidding the impeachment session were posted on the House and Senate doors. But authoritative sources, which could not be revealed, expressed the belief that a "gentlemen's agreement" would prevent any danger of bloodshed.

It was indicated that the refusal of the military to give the Legislators access to the Chamber would involve nothing more than the formality of a guard officer informing the House members that they were not permitted to enter.

Arrest of Several Forecast.

Then, it is believed, the Representatives will leave the Capitol, later assembling at some unannounced location, where they will convene and where some of their number probably will be arrested. It is believed that guard officers even may be informed of the intended location for the second convening.

Reports that he had stated that he knew of no reason why the Legislature should not meet in the District Court Room of the Federal building were denied tonight by Federal Judge John H. Cotteral.

"We stand where we have always stood; we will meet pursuant to our signed call," Representative W. D. Mee, in charge of the session, plans, said tonight. "Wednesday noon will find us at the Capitol unarmed and unguarded."

Plans for holding a caucus tonight to organize the House were canceled, the Legislators deciding to wait until the body is regularly convened before electing officers.

Charles S. Brice of McAllister, speaker pro tempore, will call the session to order, it is understood. Election of a regular speaker and adoption of a resolution reaffirming the organization elected during the last regular session will follow, it is expected.

Governor Retaliates on McBee.

Striking back at W. D. McBee, leader of the movement to seek his impeachment, Governor J. C. Walton today stopped all work on a $1,000,000 highway project in Stephens County, which McBee represents in the State Legislature.

The Governor declared that "if charges that McBee has received a large fee from a cement company in connection with the road are proved, criminal action will be instituted."

Told of the Governor's charge, Representative McBee made the following statement:

"The Governor's statement is unfounded. I refuse to say one word in verifying the fact that I had no part in determining the material used in the Stephens County highway project, to the Duncan (Okla.) Chamber of Commerce."

Continuance for two weeks of the trial of N. C. Jewett, Grand Dragon, of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, charged with rioting, was granted in Justice Court today at the request of S. P. Freeling, former State Attorney General, counsel for Jewett.

Application to file an original quo warranto actions against Adjutant General B. H. Markham to test his authority to name a military supervisor for the Tulsa County Sheriff's office was filed in the State Supreme Court here today. The application was made by counsel for R. S. Sanford, civil Sheriff of the county.

Will Forbid Use of Federal Building.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—It was learned tonight that the Government will probably instruct the official in charge of the Federal building at Oklahoma City that the building must be used solely for the purposes of the Federal Government and that any other use of it would be unlawful.

Bill Carlisle, Noted Bandit, Fights Fire in Penitentiary

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 25.—Bill Carlisle has appeared in a new role. At the State Penitentiary in Rawlings Sunday, the train bandit, who attracted national notoriety a few years ago by his daring exploits in holding up passenger trains and then making his escape, battled for five hours against a fire that razed the prison shirt factory and threatened the entire plant.

Sticking to the front line of fire-fighters and taking all manner of risks, Carlisle finally was overcome by smoke and forced to retire. He was taken to the prison hospital, where he recovered several hours later.

The factory was a total loss, as was its equipment, the property of the Reliance Manufacturing Company of Chicago.

FIND 25 BIG EGGS IN DINOSAURS' NESTS

Natural History Museum Men Make Notable Discoveries in Mongolia.

THROW NEW LIGHT ON PAST

Nine Tons of Fossils, Coming Here, Are Called Biggest Find in Paleontology.

PEKING, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Dinosaurs, the colossal reptile creatures of a prehistoric era laid eggs five to six niches long and had nests like any domestic fowl of today, according to an announcement made by the Third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History on its return here after five months on the Mongolian plains.

"The early beasts of Asia and America were kin and roamed across the two continents on the land bridge that joined them in those remote times, they find.

The party was in Peking today with what its members termed the largest find of the remains of prehistoric animals in the history of paleontology. Nine tons of fossils have been collected and will be shipped to America.

One of the leaders of the expedition, Henry Fairfield Osborn, the paleontologist, said the fossil beds found in Mongolia were the largest known to science.

The adventurers of science returned with the opinion that they had proved the Mongolian plateau to have been the centre of dispersion of the most ancient animals traced.

Dr. Osborn and Roy Chapman Andrews, the naturalist, consider a spectacular feature of their discoveries the twenty-five fossilized dinosaur eggs which they found. These are the first dinosaur eggs to be revealed to science, according to members of the expedition, who said that hitherto it had not been known that the dinosaur laid eggs. The eggs are elliptical, five to six inches in length, their shells now covered with a buff-colored coating. Their age is estimated at ten million years.

The explorers brought out seventy-two skulls and twelve complete skeletons of these "terrible lizards," as the two Greek words forming the term "dinosaur" describe them.

The expedition also found numerous remains of mammals, principally of a giant rhinoceros-like beast which is said to prove kinship among the earliest fauna of Asia and America.

The party traveled in motor cars but carried the supplies by a caravan of seventy camels.

Greatest Discovery in Paleontology.

The discoveries made by the Mongolian expedition constitute unquestionably the greatest dinosaur find in the history of paleontology and double the knowledge of the field, said Dr. W. D. Matthew, Curator of the Department of Paleontology of the Museum of Natural History, yesterday afternoon.

The outstanding feature of the report is the announcement of the discovery of three dinosaur nests, comparable to those of the crocodile, and twenty-five eggs, settling at rest once and for all the mooted question as to the bringing forth of the young of these reptiles. It had been thought possible that dinosaurs, like certain other reptiles, did not lay eggs.

"The finding of seventy skulls of dinosaurs and twelve complete skeletons is undoubtedly the most extensive discovery of any one expedition," Dr. Matthew said. "As only between 40 and 100 skulls have been found in all the previous expeditions. And, moreover, some of the present specimens are different from any we have known heretofore, a few of them being closely related to the American kind.

"From the reports received it is probable that we have found the ancestors of the European and American dinosaurs, which would seem to confirm the theory of Asia being the cradle of animal life. Among the specimens is the ancestor of the big-horned dinosaur. We have never known before where this type originated.

"The tertiary mammal fauna remains discovered will enable us to compare those of Asia, Europe and America and determine what animals originated on each of the three continents. Incidentally these discoveries will have a bearing on the Atlantis theory and settle the fifty-year-old dispute as to whether Western Europe and Eastern North America were ever connected by a bridge of land. The French particularly have always favored this

Lawyers Hurriedly Prepare Nine Motions, One to Dismiss, and All Are Denied.

UP TO JURY, SAYS COURT

Plea to Reduce Charge of First-Degree Murder in Indictment Also Fails.

RALPH WARD NOT CALLED

Sudden Finish of Prosecution Comes as Surprise—Defense to Begin Today.

The State rested its case against Walter S. Ward, on trial at White Plains for the killing of Clarence M. Peters, eight minutes after yesterday's session began and after only thirty-eight of its seventy-two witnesses had testified.

The sudden termination of the prosecution's fight took every one by surprise, none more so than the Ward attorneys. Plainly confused by the abrupt halt, former Justice Isaac N. Mills, chief of the defense staff, obtained permission from Justice Wagner to defer the defense opening until this morning.

Judge Mills then made several motions on behalf of Ward. One was for the immediate dismissal of the indictment on the ground that the State had failed completely to make out a case—even failing legally to connect Ward with the slaying. Another was for a reduction of the indictment to manslaughter, and the others were for a charge to acquit, and to strike out certain parts of the prosecution's evidence.

"These things are for the jury to decide," said Justice Wagner, refusing all the motions.

O'Neill Fights Motions.

The vigorous efforts made by Judge Mills to have the charges against Ward set aside and his carefully worked-out argument that the only thing produced against the accused had been the famous typewritten statement which Ward's attorneys handed in when he surrendered three days after the slaying brought an equally vigorous reply from Deputy Attorney General Thomas J. O'Neill.

"There are two questions to be decided," Mr. O'Neill said, "and Ward's statement is not only improbable but absolutely impossible of belief. Only a jury of twelve imbeciles would believe it. The two things to be considered are: Did Ward kill Peters and did he kill him in self-defense? It is admitted that he killed him. Not only the contents but the omissions in his statements make it impossible to believe that Peters was killed in self-defense. The State holds Ward guilty of first degree murder. His false statements showed him guilty of a deliberate crime."

At one point in his argument, Judge Mills cited several decisions in cases which he considered parallels to this one. One of these concerned the fate of a man who killed a dog on a highway after the animal had bitten him. "Yes," said Mr. O'Neill later, "but the dog that bit him had no teeth," an allusion to the State's contention that Peters when killed was unarmed.

The courtroom was jammed when Justice Wagner ascended the bench at 10 o'clock. "Big Bill" Condon, court attendant, had to struggle to keep women from pushing into the courtroom. Even when he closed the door as the trial began the walls were lined with persons standing.

Ralph Ward Not Called.

Deputy Attorney General Wilbur W. Chambers was assigned to examine for the State, and the first witness he called was Walter A. Ferris, Assistant District Attorney of Westchester. This occasioned some surprise, as the plans of the State had been to call Ralph D. Ward, brother of the accused.

It developed, however, that the Attorney General, Mr. O'Neill and two Ward attorneys, State Senator Elwood M. Rabenold and Allan R. Campbell, had argued the eligibility of Ralph Ward as a witness, before the formal session of court began. The Attorney General, uncertain as to the propriety of several of his questions, requested a ruling from Justice Wagner. Apparently the was adverse, because Ralph Ward was not called.

Mr. Ferris, under examination by Mr. Chambers, testified that he had turned over to the State the clothing worn by Peters at the time of his death, and also all of the other exhibits in the case. He produced a receipt for the exhibits, and this was introduced in evidence without protest. As Ferris left the witness stand, Mr. Sherman, addressing the Court, announced that the case for the prosecution rested.

"Your Honor," said Judge Mills, "there are certain motions which we would like to present and we would like a little time in which to prepare them."

Justice Wagner then announced that he would exclude the jury and would hear the arguments at 10:45 o'clock. The Ward attorneys hurried from the courtroom to the law library on the floor and there prepared their motions.

In the interval, Attorney General Sherman went before the Extraordinary Grand Jury which indicted Ward and which held a short session yesterday. When Mr. Sherman went into the Grand Jury room he was accompanied by James J. Cunningham, Thorndyke Track follower, whose affidavit was introduced three days ago by the defense in this document. Cunningham, in held in jail as a material witness, alleged that he knew the details of a blackmail plot aimed at George S. Ward, President of the Ward Baking Company, and father of Walter. Mr. Sherman remained in the room about a minute. It could not be ascertained whether Cunningham went before the Grand Jurors.

The Ward attorneys returned at the time named, and Judge Mills offered the motions.

"I want to present four motions to strike out testimony under four different rules of evidence. I shall not take your Honor's time with extended arguments in favor of these motions, because most of the grounds have been brought out in cross-examination. But, after consulting my associates, it has been deemed proper to make these motions.

Attacks Sheriff's Testimony.

"In the first place, I move to strike from the record and instruct the jury to ignore the testimony of Sheriff George J. Werner regarding the talk at his home on the evening of May 19. He testified, you remember, that on that day Mr. Campbell appeared at his office and announced that he was ready to surrender Mr. Ward in connection with the Peters homicide.

"At that time arrangements were made to meet the Sheriff at his home that evening. Werner did not want publicity and thought that by keeping quiet and by keeping the thing from the newspapers he would be better enabled to apprehend the missing blackmailers, and no one can criticize his judgment in this regard. He testified that when they were together one of Ward's attorneys said in advance that Ward would do no talking. Then there was a general conversation in which was brought out the gist of the written statement delivered to the authorities on the following Monday, May 22. I move that the jury be instructed to disregard that evidence.

"I make this request on two specific grounds. The first is that it is incompetent evidence; the second, that the rule of silence applies as the Sheriff was notified in advance that Ward would have nothing to say. This rule is thoroughly well established in many Appellate Division decisions—in fact, I was a party to one of them.

"In addition, at this point I maintain that conversation by an attorney in the presence of a client has never been carried to the extreme of use against a client in a criminal case. It might be just as reasonable to use this talk of mine—he is listening to it now and in silence—against Mr. Ward. The doctrine of agency does not apply here."

Wants Pistol Testimony Out.

Judge Mills said that completed his argument on that motion, and Justice Wagner said, "I deny your motion."

"I now move," continued Judge Mills, "that the jury be instructed to ignore all evidence in regard to the introduction of the two guns, and also all evidence as to their being put in evidence, on the ground that it is incompetent. I have, in addition, several specific grounds for moving the rejection of this particular testimony. For instance, there is no proof in this record that the guns were delivered to the authorities with Mr. Ward's authority, and if they were not delivered to them with his authority their use here is an invasion of his constitutional rights. There is no proof here that they were delivered even with his knowledge.

"You need not argue that, Judge," said Justice Wagner; "I agree with you there."

"Well," resumed counsel for Ward, "if that is the case it is just as if some one"—and the elderly lawyer leaned over as though to pull Ward's handkerchief from his pocket—"did this."

"Motion denied," said Justice Wagner.

Judge Mills then moved to strike from the record all evidence as to the alleged gift by Captain Cody to the defendant of two pistols on the general ground that the weapons were not identified.

Justice Wagner, remarking that he "regarded that as a matter for the jury to decide," denied this motion also.

All Motions Denied.

"Now I move to strike from the record all evidence as to the glass," said Judge Mills. "First on the general ground of incompetency, and second, that there is no proof that the glass was not broken in Ward's car on the Sunday night before the death of Peters."

The Court denied this motion, and Judge Mills passed to his chief plea.

"I move that the indictment should be dismissed in so far as it charges first degree murder. The evidence put in by the prosecution does not warrant it. There is no evidence to show premeditation or deliberation."

Justice Wagner merely said: "I deny the motion."

"I now ask that the charge of murder in the first degree be withdrawn on the ground of lack of evidence."

Again Justice Wagner denied the plea.

"I move that the indictment be dismissed in so far as it charges second degree murder, but I suppose that your Honor having denied the higher plea, this likewise is denied."

"Yes," said the Court, and Judge Mills then asked that the jury be directed to acquaint the defendant of "murder."

"You notice," he added, "that I do not move a dismissal of the manslaughter charge—we want a verdict in this case."

Judge Mills cited decisions in cases which he declared parallel the Ward case, and said:

"The rules of law require, as set forth in these decisions, that Ward's written statement must be taken in whole or not at all. This man came in when there was not the slightest evidence against him. He surrendered himself under the conception that it was his duty as a law-abiding citizen. Does not ordinary justice demand that the State accept his statement in full? I would not treat a dog that way.

Not Disproved, He Says.

"Was his statement improbable? Did not the officers permit him to go free after he surrendered and handed in that statement? Does that look as if they thought it improbable? How can it be improbable if something more probable is not suggested?

"Where was Peters killed—how was he killed—if he wasn't killed where and how Ward says. How did this young business man and that young man—who never knew him and never had been to New York, who had been hermetically sealed from Walter S. Ward, in his absence in the South—how did they come together on that lonely road except in the circumstances we have disclosed? I ask those questions.

"Now, has Mr. Ward's story been disproved in any essential part? Following the examination of witnesses by the State in an effort to do so has been to me like following a craft tacking back and forth over an uncharted sea. Another, however, from Mr. O'Neill, the only one I could follow, that they have disproved the statement that Peters was in the gang that assailed Mr. Ward on the Sunday night prior to the shooting. No witnesses have been produced to show that either Mr. Ward or any of his attorneys ever put Peters in that Sunday night attack.

"In our statement we spoke of a 'gang of blackmailers.' If Peters was there on that lonely road, holding a gun against Mr. Ward, as we have said, he was there as the hired gunman of Charley Ross and Jack Rogers. Wouldn't that make him a member of the gang of blackmailers?

"I've held throughout, as I hold now, that this second prosecution against Mr. Ward was utterly unwarranted. There has been no new evidence introduced—you saw that yesterday when my able associate, Mr. Campbell, questioned Colonel Weeks, and that official admitted that the names on this indictment were the same as those on the indictment that was dismissed.

"There is nothing new. It is the old, old case which Justice Seabury said was 'stale,' which the Appellate Division of this very department, in an unanimous decision, said did not establish either the innocence or the guilt of Mr. Ward. Has your Honor the heart, has your Honor the intellect to let this go on?"

Jury Must Decide, Says O'Neill.

Before the Court ruled against this final motion, Mr. O'Neill made a brief argument.

"The story of Ward is more than improbable. We maintain that the evidence requires the jury, in common sense, to return a verdict of guilty. Take those statements of his—one he made on May 19, when he was not under arrest and could come and go as he pleased, and the one he made when he surrendered on May 22. In that second statement they say that he had appeared to make complaint to the Sheriff and District Attorney about a gang of blackmailers. He never made any complaint.

"They say that the blackmailers had threatened his wife and children—the two beautiful children whose picture we permitted to go into evidence yesterday. And he never made a single complaint to Chief Cody of New Rochelle. Why, Ward was Chairman of the New Rochelle Police Board, and all he would have to do was to say 'send a couple of men up to the house, I'm being annoyed by wild anarchists.' But did he do that? No!

"The jury would be warranted in believing that no one was blackmailing Ward. When this May 22 statement was drawn, neither he nor his attorneys knew that Peters could be proved to have been on his way home, near Washington, on that Sunday night they spoke about. Think of it—on that Sunday night, according to Ward's story, the blackmailers fired at him—the bullets passed so close to him they smashed a window in his car.

"And yet, a few nights later, he drove out to meet these desperadoes—not to pay them, but to temporize with them. Improbable? Why he would have to get twelve imbeciles to believe him going out to meet these desperadoes who had fired at him the night before."

Final Motion Denied.

With a sidelong glance at Ward, sitting coolly at his attorneys' table, Mr. O'Neill sat down.

"As the evidence now stands," said Justice Wagner, "the matter is one for the jury to decide. The motion is denied."

Following the defeat of their motions, the lawyers for Ward refused to indicate the form of their defense or the length of time they would require to get their evidence before the jury. They adjourned for a conference with Walter Ward and Ralph Ward, to determine their course.

All refused to talk after the conference, beyond saying that the defense would disclose its plans in the opening address this morning, to be delivered by Judge Mills.

ARREST PROMISED IN DICKSON MURDER

Girl Seen Auto Riding With Young Philadelphian on Day of Death.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Sept. 25.—A young Philadelphian, scion of a wealthy family, County Detective Frank Lore declared tonight, probably would be arrested within the next twenty-four hours as the alleged slayer of Emma Dickson, 16-year-old high school girl of Bricksboro, whose body was found in a slump of weeds near Port Elizabeth, N. J., last Saturday.

The suspect, the officers assert, had been friendly with the young girl for some time. They believe she expected him to marry her. The afternoon of the day she met her death, Miss Dickson was seen driving with this man. She was with him when Miss Irma Hummel passed in a car with gasoline at a South Millville service station. Miss Hummel declares she can identify the man.

Saturday evening, not long after dark, two men saw a car of the same make as the one in which Miss Hummel saw Miss Dickson, standing in the road at Port Elizabeth, opposite the spot where the girl's body was found. These men were driving toward the car. Their headlights, according to the police, revealed a man, apparently young, bending over a clump of weeds at the spot where the girl's body was found. Investigations in Philadelphia have disclosed that the suspect's car was out Saturday afternoon and evening.

The county detective announced tonight that examination by a Philadelphia fingerprint expert of the board near the dead girl's body, had disclosed almost perfect fingerprints of a right and left thumb among the bloodstains on the plank.

The girl's body, it was said tonight, is to be exhumed tomorrow under an order which County Detective Lore obtained from the court today. New information as to the condition of Miss Dickson was said to have made this necessary in order to supply the motive for the alleged crime.

Another development today was the finding of a shed built underground at an isolated spot between Port Elizabeth and Maxumuzuk. The interior is divided into two rooms, one of which apparently had been used as a bedroom. A bloodstained hatchet was found on the floor of the bedroom.

The investigators said they believed a plank bearing bloody thumb prints and wisps of the dead girl's hair, which was found beside her body, had been torn from the door of the shed. Automobile tracks were found beside the entrance to the shed.

COOLIDGE WILL ASK LEGISLATION ON COAL

President Is Studying Commissions' Reports and Approves Many of Its Recommendations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Suggestions of the Federal Coal Commission for enactment of legislation to deal with the Nation's fuel problem will be recommended to Congress by President Coolidge.

President Coolidge is studying the various recommendations made by the commission, both as to executive action and legislation by Congress. Although he has not had an opportunity as yet to go in detail into the Commission's various reports, it was said today at the White House that he approved those recommendations having to do with legislation and feels that Congress would find them worthy of consideration.

The commission's recommendations generally were described at the White House as "helpful and wise." Among them is the proposal that Congress by legislation create a section of the Interstate Commerce Commission to deal with the coal problem.

REGULARS LEAD IN JERSEY.

Heavy Voting by Both Parties in State Primaries.

The "old line" party candidates made a clean sweep in the Democratic and Republican State-wide primaries in New Jersey yesterday, according to last night's returns. An unusually heavy vote was cast, the balloting being principally in the later afternoon and early evening, after the commuters reached their homes.

In Camden County, where David Baird has held sway for many years, the independents launched an attack upon his Republican candidates for State Senator and Assembly, but returns indicate that the Baird faction won easily. Ralph N. Cellano, the Republican candidate for State Senator, was successful. Joseph Wallworth, the present Senator, declined the nomination this year. The successful Assembly candidates are George F. Dowling, E. Frank Pine and Roy R. Stevens.

In Ocean county where Ezra Parker refused the nomination for Assemblyman, the Republican fight was between Mrs. Ella W. Thompson, independent, and William H. Jefferys, who had the backing of the organization. Jefferys won the nomination. Mercer county's soldier-citizen candidate, Frank Muscale, a World War veteran, tried to get on the Assembly ticket but failed. The three men nominated are Herbert West, Stephen Kearns and Harry Harbourt.

The paramount issue all the way from Hudson County to Cape May County was the liquor question. Other factors entered into the situation, such as Ku Klux activities, the public service situation and party factional fights, but prohibition was the main subject to be settled. Returns from South Jersey indicated that Klan influence played a considerable part.

The hope of the "drys" centred in the independent candidates after the Republican leaders virtually deserted the Anti-Saloon League. The League was practically ignored by the Democrats.

The liveliest contest in the State was over the Senatorship in Essex County. State Senator William H. Perry, Progressive-Republican and dry advocate sought the renomination against former Prosecutor J. Henry Harison, G. O. P. regular. In the Democratic primary, Judge Smith was opposed by Julian A. Gregory, anti-organization candidate. Early returns indicated that Harison and Smith were successful.

PUNISHED, HE SAYS, FOR POLICE RAID

Patrolman Tells Crain Woman He Arrested Was Freed and His Protest Ignored.

ACTED IN FACE OF THREATS

Shevlin Surrenders and His $20,000 Bond He Forfeited Remitted.

Albert V. Pitt, until recently a patrolman on the staff of Inspector John O'Brien, in charge of Brooklyn and Queens, swore before Judge Thomas C. T. Crain in the police bootleg graft inquiry yesterday that within twenty-four hours after threats by a woman he arrested for operating a still he would be "sent to the goats," he was transferred to the West 135th Street station; that the case against the woman was dismissed without an opportunity being given him to appear and that subsequent efforts made by him to reopen the case were fruitless, although he visited the District Attorney in Queens, the Mayor's office at City Hall and wrote Commissioner Richard E. Enright a personal letter.

Rounding out Pitt's testimony, John D. Lindsay, counsel for Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, in the criminal libel action brought by Commissioner Enright, introduced police records to show that before Pitt made the raid and found two stills and a quantity of mash, a report had been made by men under Inspector Charles A. Formosa, assigned to a previous investigation, that they had been unable to find any evidence of a violation at the address Pitt visited.

While the inquiry before Judge Crain was under way yesterday George J. Shevlin, sought as the person believed to hold the key to the so-called Petrucci case, in which two detectives were accused of bribery and three high police officials of ownership of a quantity of whisky, surrendered himself to Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson in the United States District Court, where he is under indictment on a bootlegging charge. On Tuesday a $20,000 bond in which Shevlin was held was declared forfeited when he failed to appear to plead to a superseding indictment. Judge Hutcheson remitted the bond yesterday on Shevlin's assertion that he had not received any notice to appear on Tuesday. Shevlin was directed to be in court again on Monday, when the case is set down for trial, and it is believed that at that time he will be served with a subpoena to appear as a witness at the Crain inquiry.

Raid Described by Witness.

The raid figuring in Pitt's testimony was made on March 5 at the home of Mrs. Della Taft, on Sherman Avenue, Astoria. Assigned with Pitt to the case was Patrolman Frank G. Wilson. They acted on orders received directly from Inspector O'Brien, Pitt said.

On entering the premises, Pitt testified, Wilson went into the kitchen with Mrs. Taft and he entered a bathroom, where he found a still in operation. After he had dismantled the still, Pitt said, Wilson emerged from the kitchen and said: "Dismantle the still, but don't make any arrests."

Pitt said that his reply to Wilson was: "This woman is going to be arrested if I have to do it myself."

"You'd better come in and let me talk to you," Pitt quoted Mrs. Taft as saying. "I've just talked to your partner. The Inspector and his men have all been here. They've got theirs. Why don't you get yours?"

"I told her: 'I'm going to get mine now and that is you,'" Pitt continued. "She then told me that she had strong official connections and that I would be 'sent to the goats.'"

Placed Her Under Arrest.

Pitt said that despite the threats he had placed Mrs. Taft under arrest and had given her the choice of riding to the police station in a patrol wagon or walking with Mrs. May L. Hendrickson, a woman interested in child welfare work, who had accompanied the policemen on the raid. Mrs. Hendrickson, who was a witness at one of the first hearings before Judge Crain, corroborated Pitt's version of the threats, and said that Mrs. Taft had repeated the threats while walking to the station. Wilson, when he testified Tuesday, denied that Mrs. Taft had made any threats in his hearing.

When Mrs. Taft was arraigned, Pitt said, a week's adjournment was given. He appeared, he said, on the day set for the examination and learned that the case had been dismissed the day before. The testimony of other witnesses was to the effect that there had been a confusion in the date to which the hearing was adjourned and that Assistant District Attorney William B. Groat had told the Court that the officer who made the arrest had been transferred and reduced and that it was doubtful whether he would ever appear.

"Further questioning by Mr. Lindsay disclosed that the day following the raid Pitt was transferred to the West 135th Street station. He lived at Rockaway Beach at the time, he said, and the transfer necessitated a long trip to and from work.

"I saw Inspector O'Brien," said Pitt, "and told him what had happened. The Inspector said he did not understand why I had been transferred for doing my duty and that he would investigate it."

Pitt said that he went on sick leave after his assignment to the West 135th station and that he never reported there. During his absence, he said, he was transferred a second time, on this occasion to Jamaica.

"During this time," said Pitt, "I went to District Attorney Wallace and asked that the case be reopened and presented to the Grand Jury. I was surprised that an Assistant District Attorney should go before a Magistrate and make such statements as he did.

Wrote to Enright.

"I later called at City Hall with Mrs. Hendrickson to see the Mayor. She saw him, but I didn't. I also went to Police Headquarters with her. We tried to see the Commissioner, but we couldn't. I then wrote Commissioner Enright a personal letter and mailed it myself at Rockaway Beach."

Pitt's letter, giving in substance his version of the raid and the facts of his transfer, was read into the record. "It has been stated," the letter said in part, "that I am a member of the Ku Klux Klan, but I am not and never was connected with it in any way whatever." Pitt testified that after realizing that his efforts to have the case reopened were in vain, he had resigned from the department.

Mr. Pecora, in a sharp cross-examination of Pitt, questioned him closely about his personal resources and made several references to the Ku Klux Klan in an effort to show that Pitt was active in it. During the examination Pitt admitted that he had been told that his supposed membership in the Klan was the reason for his transfer.

While a member of the department, Pitt admitted, he had traded in real estate, automobiles and horses. "Did you ever trade in whisky?" he was asked. "No, positively, no," was the reply.

Pitt admitted owning a house at 1424 Street, Rockaway Beach, for which, he said, he recently had refused $17,000. Questioned as to how he had acquired the property, Pitt replied in detail, describing several real estate transactions by which, he said, starting in a small way, he had got the house.

Inspector James S. Bolan and Patrick Cryan, a former saloonkeeper, of 300 West 138d Street, were the other witnesses at yesterday's hearing. Bolan was examined by Mr. Lindsay concerning a raid made by the men on his staff on the apartment of Morris H. Elvidge, 762 West End Avenue, on June 29, 1922. His examination was suspended to permit Cryan to testify.

Cryan testified about the seizure of a quantity of liquor by the police in January, 1922. He declared that the liquor was "pre-war stuff" and that when he obtained a Supreme Court order for its return, a large part of the liquor was not given back.

After hearing Cryan's story Judge Crain ruled that his testimony was too indefinite to establish any charge against the police, and when Mr. Pecora showed the witness's connection with the investigation under way in the District Attorney's office, he held that he would not go further into the case.

The inquiry will be resumed at 10:30 this morning.

ENRIGHT'S BUDGET RAISES AIDS' PAY

Asks $40,000 and Proposes Dropping 16 Minor Men to Make Up Sum.

When the hearing on the tentative budget for 1924 was resumed before the Board of Estimate yesterday, Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright appeared and urged favorable consideration for his budget requirements. In his estimate of the amount needed to run the department for next year the Commissioner included salary increases for high department officials totaling $40,000.

Although the board examiners opposed the increases, their action was overruled and the request was put on a special calendar for future consideration when the budget is finally made up after the Commissioner explained that the rise in salaries would not entail an additional expense to the taxpayers because he proposed to drop one captain at $4,000 a year, eight lieutenants at $3,200 a year each and seven sergeants at $2,700 a year each, which would more than meet the proposed increase.

The increases which Commissioner Enright seeks include a rise for Chief Inspector William Lahey from $7,500 to $10,000 a year and a jump from $5,500 to $6,000 for five deputy chief inspectors. These are Cornelius F. Cahalane, Dominick Henry, John O'Brien, Samuel G. Belton and Thomas F. Smith. Other increases recommended by the Commissioner are: fifteen captains detailed as inspectors from $4,900 to $5,500; chief surgeon, $6,500 to $7,500 and a surgeon detailed as deputy chief surgeon, from $4,400 to $5,500. The Commissioner also recommended that instead of twenty police surgeons at $4,400 he be given twenty-two at $5,000 a year.

Laughter Greets Request.

A request by the Commissioner for $25,000 for "enforcement of the prohibition law in this city" caused laughter, as did his request for $50,000 "for the expenses of special service." These requests had also been denied by the examiners, but the board allowed them to go on the special calendar. The Commissioner, in asking for the $25,000, reminded the board that Governor Smith in his message vetoing the Mullan-Gage law had stated that the duty of enforcing the liquor law in this city was up to the Police Department.

"But didn't the Corporation Counsel render an opinion on that question?" asked Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert.

"Yes," replied Enright. "He said we had no special duties in the matter." During the laughter that followed Borough President Riegelmann of Brooklyn reminded the Commissioner that he (Enright) not asked for an increase for himself.

"Oh, I am coming back," said Enright with a smile.

The department needs two additional surgeons, Commissioner Enright explained, on the ground that there are 700 more men on the police force this year than there were last year and it has been customary to figure one surgeon for each 350 policemen.

$40,000 Saving Suggested.

"Suppose you don't get the increases for the higher officers in your department," suggested Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, "would you not be saving the $40,000 by not filling the vacancies you speak of?"

"If I don't get the increases for the men," replied Enright, "I don't think I'll be able to do without the one Captain, Eight Lieutenants and the seven sergeants."

The Commissioner also requested ten additional patrolmen and fourteen patrolmen, at a total cost of $42,454. He wanted $50,000 for radio equipment and $200,000 for new police boats. The increase in the department's estimate of operating cost for 1924, as submitted yesterday, amounted to $3,146,747.46. Of this sum, $400,000 is due to advancement in grades of the uniformed force, together with an allowance for the 750 new men in 1923.

District Attorney Banton also appeared before the board and asked for increases in his office.

LAYS DESTROYER WRECK TO ERROR IN JUDGMENT

Lt. Comdr. Hunter of Leading Vessel Also Says He Ordered Change in Course.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—An error in judgment caused the wreck of seven destroyers off Honda, Cal., on Sept. 8, according to Lieut. Commander Donald T. Hunter, commanding officer of the U. S. S. Delphy, which was leading the column when Destroyer Squadron 11 rode into the surf at twenty knots.

That it was an error in judgment and not an act of Providence that hurled ships to destruction and twenty-three men to their death was admitted by the Commander shortly before he concluded his testimony today before the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

Lieutenant Commander Hunter had been on the witness stand several hours and had given a detailed account of the last voyage of the Delphy, beginning with her departure from San Francisco on Sept. 8 and ending with the tragic fate of J. T. Pearson, the badly injured man who had to be left on board the doomed ship when most of its officers and crew fought their way ashore.

He was being cross-examined by counsel for other defendants and had just finished citing an unseasonable northerly current and the type of radio compass used at Point Arguello as the "real causes" of the destroyer disaster when he was interrupted by Admiral W. V. Pratt, senior member of the court.

"Do you mean to say that the wreck was an act of Providence," asked the Admiral, "or an error in judgment?"

"I'll have to admit that it was an error in judgment," replied the witness. Then, after a long pause:

"But as contributory causes, I believe the unusual northerly current we encountered near Point Arguello and the fact that a biliabout radio compass is used there were partly responsible.

"I think there is also a possibility that abnormal currents caused by the Japanese earthquake might have been another contributory cause, or magnetic disturbances connected with the polar eclipse affecting the compass; but of these I cannot, of course, speak with any first-hand knowledge."

America is concerned, as between personalities and principle.

"Aside from the illegality of the action of the newspaper web pressmen and the incidents responsible for it, due largely if not entirely to the management of the former local union, there are certain outstanding fundamentals that completely overshadow the noise of those persons responsible for the cruel and indefensible strike.

"Newspapers are, in fact, a great public utility and they owe allegiance to all of the people. Therefore partisanship as to news and facts is in contravention to what is expected from newspapers.

"When newspapers agree to operate union departments and to accept the principle of collective bargaining as between them and legal employe organizations, and are prepared to settle disputes by arbitration when conciliation fails, then newspaper owners have gone as far as any trades unionist or group of trades unionists can ask them to go. This is exactly what the Newspaper Publishers' Association of New York City has done. The leaders of the striking organization, however, disregarded this principle and attempted by force to compel the acceptance of theories and policies that if made operative would be followed by censorship and the stifling of a free press.

Arbitration an Industrial Necessity.

"That every citizen, whether employer or employe, should seek in every industrial difficulty to prevent a knockout by either side is obviously an obligation that cannot be escaped, and for the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America we hold that when conciliation fails, the one and only human instrumentality yet conceived for the same adjustment of differences should be applied. That is arbitration.

"The Board of Directors of the International Union months prior to and since the illegal strike was called have sought to maintain this principle. All other incidents attendant to this illegal strike are insignificant by comparison with the obligation that we recognize and support, namely, the upholding of sanity in industrial developments in America.

"The International Union seeks to confiscate no man's property.

"A lockout or a strike precipitated in face of conciliation or arbitration is nothing more nor less than confiscation.

"Force has never succeeded in permanently destroying fact and fact can not survive if conciliation and arbitration are denied.

"A strike has never been won in America against newspapers where such strikes were inaugurated in violation of contracts or in face of a tender of conciliation or arbitration by publishers.

"The action of the New York newspaper web pressmen in striking in violation of (1) the wishes of their parent body; (2) the tender of conciliation and arbitration by the publishers of New York City, and (3) the repudiation of all customs, laws and parliamentary procedure by the former local at the meeting when the strike was inaugurated left no recourse for the International Union except to declare their action illegal and unwarranted.

"The failure of the membership of the former organization to (1) return to their employment when ordered to do so by the constitutional authority of the parent body, and (2) to accept what the majority of the strikers believe to be a fair and just contract with liberal and constructive provisions for further improvements precipitated chaos and worked cruelties to innocent persons.

Bad Policies Must Go.

"Their persistence in a policy of continuing every embarrassment to a great industry which is vital to the interests of the workers as well as to the publishers and, moreover, essential to the well-being of the citizenship of our country and, to some extent, of the world makes it impossible for the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union to hesitate in their position. It must and does unconpromisingly Advise Mayor Murray Hulbert that ignoring the maudlin sentiment and bogus trades union ethics now being urged by those engaged in this illegal strike, it is meeting and will meet squarely every responsibility, and do everything necessary to retrieve the situation from the informational union the policies that have obsessed the former local union and that were responsible for this most unfortunate situation.

"There can be and should be no doubt in the minds of any one that the determination of the International union to harness its complete power in accomplishing this necessary reform."

David Simons, President of Web Pressmen's Union, Local 25, now outlawed by the international union, sent a letter to the newspapers last night complaining that they were not reporting the strike impartially.

District Attorney Joab A. Banton said he had received from the Western Union Telegraph Company a copy of the forged telegram purporting to have been sent out by President Berry of the International Union instructing local unions of pressmen to disregard his previous telegram calling for men. The message, said Mr. Banton, was accepted by Samuel Stoller, an employe of the telegraph company at its office at 195 Broadway. Stoller thought he would be able to identify the sender. He described him as being about 45 years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, weighing about 150 pounds and of fair complexion. He wore a brown felt hat and a brown overcoat, Stoller said.

No hostility was shown by the pressmen to the reporters who visited Beethoven Hall in the course of their duty yesterday. The atmosphere was more friendly than it has been since the strike began, on Sept. 15.

Investigating Davis Killing.

Three Assistant District Attorneys, on orders from District Attorney Joab H. Banton, began yesterday an investigation of the death of George Davis, who last Saturday night was struck on the head and killed while at work in the mailing room of The Evening Journal. Eighteen witnesses were questioned and another important witness, who had been subpoenaed but did not appear, is now being sought.

He is David Stone, a member of the outlawed pressmen's union, who was questioned on Monday by Assistant District Attorney Ryan at Police Headquarters. Mr. Ryan said that when Stone was leaving Police Headquarters a subpoena to appear at the District Attorney's investigation was handed to him and he at once disappeared.

Shortly before the announcement of Stone's disappearance, District Attorney Banton said: "I will go to the limit of this office in helping the police in the investigation into the cause of Davis's death and into the question of who caused his death. There is no room in the labor world for gangsters, and gangsters will have to go as long as I am District Attorney."

Thirty Days in Jail for Threat.

In the Night Court last night Assistant District Attorney Ryan asked Magistrate Goodman to impose a severe penalty on Royal Madden, former pugilist, who is one of the striking pressmen, whom Madden was arraigned for sentence after conviction of having threatened George Palmer of 153 Montague Street, Brooklyn, manager of a newspaper department. The police reported that Madden had been used as a "picket" to intimidate loyal newspaper employes. Two lawyers, one representing the strikers, appeared for him, and asked for a suspended sentence.

"I'm going into the facts of this case," said Magistrate Goodman, "I learn that the police records show that this defendant had six previous convictions against him. Three of them were for disorderly conduct, the fourth was for intoxication and the last two in 1916 and 1919 were for assault. He was sentenced to the workhouse on the last assault charge.

"This strike is a serious matter. It affects not only the newspapers of this city but the people of the entire country because of the threat to the news services of the greatest city in the country."

Then turning to Madden he said: "I was going to give you a long term. Because of your war record I have changed my mind. I will sentence you to thirty days in the workhouse."

PRESSMEN'S EARNINGS HIGHEST IN NEW YORK

Comparison With Other Cities Shows Wages from 8 to 84 Per Cent. Higher.

Pressroom wages regularly paid in New York City are higher than those paid in every other city in the United States, as shown in figures compiled last night from tables issued by the Publishers' Association of New York City.

During the present emergency competent pressmen are being paid $30 a day here, but the comparison below does not take this temporary condition into account and deals only with the wages paid in normal times.

Comparison of the wage scale established by the contract of Sept. 21 between the publishers and the International Union with that in force in other cities shows that New York morning newspaper pressmen get the following excess in pay over their fellows in other large cities:

New York over Chicago	23%
" " Philadelphia	84%
" " Boston	15%
" " Washington	20%
" " Pittsburgh	32%
" " New Orleans	55%
" " San Francisco	8%

Foremen or men in charge on morning newspapers here are also better paid in the following degree:

New York over Chicago	10%
" " Philadelphia	91%
" " Boston	12%
" " Washington	34%
" " Pittsburgh	63%
" " New Orleans	94%
" " San Francisco	33%

Figures for all these cities but New York and Chicago are as of April 1 last. Comparison between New York and Chicago, the two largest publishing centres, is on the new scale made here last week and that adopted in Chicago on May 24 last shows the following:

DAY.	Hours Per Week.	Wages Per Week.
New York foremen	48	$54
Chicago foremen	48	48
New York pressmen	48	48
Chicago pressmen	48	42
NIGHT.
New York foremen	41	$57
Chicago foremen	*42	50
New York pressmen	41	51
Chicago pressmen	*42	44

*Work two hours additional on Saturday nights for $2 extra.

The following comparisons of wages per hour show even more plainly the wage supremacy of New York pressmen:

SAYS SHIPPING BOARD SEES NO WAY OUT NOW

Farley Admits He Has No Policy to Recommend Since Daugherty's Decree.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Edward P. Farley, Chairman of the Shipping Board, who has been conferring with President Coolidge about the serious situation facing the board, said today that he had no policy to recommend as a substitute for the Lasker-Farley program declared illegal by Attorney General Daugherty.

"I have no policy to offer the President," he said. "I have no recommendations to make to the board, and I do not know what legislation will be asked of Congress."

It was said at the White House that there had been a reduction in the losses in the operation of the ships in the last few months. Mr. Farley later in the day was unable to say definitely whether there was any saving or how much the losses had been reduced. He said he would find out whether the statement is entirely justified and make public the reduction of losses, if any had been effected.

Mr. Farley declined to make known the price paid by the Dollar Steamship Line for seven combination passenger and cargo vessels bought from the board, or the contract for which was signed today. He said last week, when the sale was actually concluded, that he would inform the public as to the price. When asked when he would do this he declared:

"I will give it out when, in my judgment, it is the proper time."

SAYS IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

Return on $700,000 Yearly Outlay Pleases Dry Goods Firm.

Major Benjamin M. Namm of A. I. Namm & Son, dry goods merchants, declared at a meeting of the Brooklyn Advertising Club yesterday that the $700,000 annual advertising expenditure of the store is amply justified by the return on the investment.

Advertising creates respect when customers find that it is truthful, he said. When business throughout the country was dropping off after the war, Major Namm declared, his firm practically doubled its advertising and results justified the policy.

Arthur Brisbane decared that Brooklyn is destined to be one of the most populous communities in the world and that newspapers that now print Brooklyn sections may eventually get their principal news and advertising from Brooklyn and print Manhattan supplements.

AUTUMN COLD BRINGS MISERY TO JAPANESE

Thousands in Tokio and Yokohama Shiver, Huddled Together in Huts.

BILLION IN PROPERTY LOST

Washington Gives This Estimate—Cotton Industry is Most Severely Hit.

TOKIO, Sept. 24 (Associated Press).—An urgent imperial ordinance announced today provides for the immediate appropriation of 100,000,000 yen to relieve the pressing necessities of thousands of homeless earthquake sufferers. Out of this fund building materials also are to be purchased for the construction of temporary shelters.

The misery extent was exemplified today in Tokio and Yokohama when the Autumn equinox brought in cold and rain. Throughout the vast devastated stretches of the two cities thousands of sufferers shivered in abject woe, huddled together in their meagre shelters.

The great shipbuilding yards of Yokohama Bay—the Asano, Uraga, Yokohama and Ishikawajima—have reduced their working capacity ten to twenty per cent. of normal because of earthquake losses.

According to official figures, there are 1,700,000 actual living earthquake sufferers in Tokio alone. More than 500,000 have already left for the interior.

Washington Estimates Losses.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Japan's financial loss in the recent earthquake disaster averages about $18 per capita of its population, it was estimated today by the Far Eastern Division of the Commerce Department. The damage to industry, considering the total capacity of the manufacturing and producing establishments of the country, was estimated to be even less proportionately.

Material damage amounts to $1,000,000,000, in the department figures. If the Japanese nation adds that amount to its present public debt of $1,612,000,000, its total per capita indebtedness will be about $85, as compared with a per capita indebtedness for the United States of $211 and Great Britain of $733.

The cotton spinning industry, located largely in the earthquake zone, sustained the most serious property destruction. About 500,000 cotton spindles, or between 10 and 15 per cent. of the total number of spindles ordinarily employed by Japanese cotton spinners, were entirely destroyed. The department said, however, that the industry in Japan had been overexpanded and that the loss of productive capacity would merely serve to keep Japanese mills still in operation running full time.

Japanese silk production will be little hampered, the estimates continued, though 40,000 bales of raw silk in Yokohama were destroyed and machinery used in testing and handling silk shipments was damaged, the producing area where the silk worms are cultivated was only slightly affected. In a short time shipments of silk probably will be resumed.

It was pointed out further that 75 per cent. of the material loss was represented in the labor costs of construction. The department predicted that "the increased efforts of the Japanese will compensate largely for this" in the reconstruction now beginning.

RHINE PUTSCH ON SUNDAY.

Alleged Program to Proclaim a Republic is Made Public.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLOGNE, Sept. 25.—The German press here publishes what are asserted with every possible emphasis to be authoritative details of a separatist plan to establish a dictatorship in the Rhineland on next Sunday through an armed putsch. I am assured of the unquestionable authenticity of the information. The scheme, which is given in great detail, may be summarized as follows:

A secret meeting of the recently formed general directorate of the "Rhenish Independence Union" at Düsseldorf on the 15th inst., presided over by Herr Mathies, decided that the putsch should begin immediately after a big meeting which it had been arranged to hold there on Sunday. In his speech, Mathies is reported to have said the first step would be an attack on the remaining German police by the separatist storm troops and disarmament of the force. Their weapons would be used to complete the equipment of the military force to be called the Rhineland Wehr, for whom uniforms were in readiness, and who would be placed under command of a certain Herr Zilinsky. Mathies urged that the present was the psychological moment to establish a correlation between Poincaré's demand for cessation of passive resistance and the desire for the Rhineland republic.

Herr Deitz is said to have informed the directorate that the French had promised them that over seventy trains would be placed at the disposal of the separatists for Sunday and that over 200,000 separatists had already agreed to be present, including 40,000 miners, probably Poles from the Ruhr.

The putsch would be followed by a meeting immediately and at 5 P. M. the document would be handed to General Degoutte. When this had received his approval the Rhineland republic would be proclaimed.

The various storm troops had been instructed to suppress all opposition ruthlessly and not to hesitate to proceed, if necessary, from the use of rubber truncheons to that of revolvers.

It may be mentioned that the Cologne Gazette states it to be a fact that a number of separatists have boasted that they have been sold French Army revolvers at 162 francs apiece and cartridges at 1 franc each for Sunday.

The onerous decision to abandon passive resistance has been received here with sullen acquiescence in the inevitable. The announcement was of course expected and in many ways a definite decision has relieved the suspense of the last few days.

The bitterness of what is recognized as complete defeat in the unarmed defense of the Ruhr and Rhineland against overwhelming military and economic forces is to some extent softened by pride in the fight which, it is confidently claimed, is unique in history and which will ever redound to the credit of the Rhine and Ruhr populations. It is asserted that "the wrong done to the German people is one done to humanity as a whole, as the world which today looks on indifferently at our tragedy willfully disregards."

That the long continuance of passive resistance was a great tactical error is now admitted by persons of almost every shade of opinion.

DIG UP PHOENICIAN CITY.

Archaeologists Discover Necropolis in South of Spain.

SAN LUCAR, Spain, Sept. 25.—While digging for the ancient district of Tartessus a group of archaeologists have discovered a Phoenician necropolis. Roman remains were unearthed and also a number of stones inscribed with illegible characters.

Tartessus, believed to be the Tarshish mentioned in the Old Testament, is supposed to have extended on both sides of the Guadalquivir River in what is now Southern Spain. It was colonized by the Phoenicians for trading purposes, the country being rich in all kinds of metals.

Urge Examination of Materials.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A special session of the Illinois Legislature to enact a law to provide for a compulsory mental and physical examination of materials was advocated today by members of the Mayor's Referee Committee and others aroused by automobile fatalities in Chicago. The list of deaths since Jan. 1 reached 400 today.

SAVES CONVICT FROM CHAIR.

Gov. Smith Commutes Febrola's Sentence to Life Imprisonment.

ALBANY, Sept. 25.—Governor Smith today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on a convicted murderer and pardoned a youth convicted of burglary and jail-breaking.

On recommendation of the District Attorney of Westchester County, Frank Febrola was saved from the electric chair by the Governor's action. Febrola and Anniello Paretti, co-defendant, were convicted at separate trials of first degree murder. Febrola's conviction was affirmed on appeal, while the Court of Appeals reversed the conviction of Paretti. Paretti was never retried and was released.

After a visit from the boy's father today Governor Smith freed Fred Albert Hayes, convicted in Washington County in September, 1921, of burglary in the third degree and escaping from jail and sentenced to serve a sentence ranging from 8 years 6 months to 17 years. Executive clemency was recommended by the Judge before whom Hayes was convicted and the prosecutor in the case.

STUDENTS CAUSE ARREST.

Say He Ran Off With Five Violins While They Went on an Errand.

A man who gave his name to the police as Adye George of 316 West Twentieth Street was locked up in the East Fifty-first Street Station last night charged with grand larceny. He was identified by five young students of the Manhattan Conservatory of Music, 720 Lexington Avenue, as the man who had asked them to do an errand for him while he held their violins and had run away with their property. He protested he was a victim of mistaken identity.

The police have received at least thirty complaints from victims of similar thefts. Last evening, Ernest Dringuod of 1,444 Avenue A and George McNiff of Seventy-third Street and Third Avenue, were approaching the school when they were stopped by a man they allege was George, and asked if they would do him the usual favor while he took care of their musical instruments. They refused. One of the boys followed the man until he went into a store and then called up the conservatory. The arrest followed.

of Communist bands have committed suicide and others have been killed by their followers. It states that large numbers of Communists who surrendered carried rifles of a Russian pattern.

Developments indicate that Bulgaria is not only struggling to crush a Communist-Agrarian revolution of wide ramifications, but, according to the Government authorities, is menaced on her borders by foreign forces prepared to seize the opportunity to intervene on the pretext of putting a speedy end to Bulgaria's internal disorders. Premier Zankoff called on the ministers of the foreign Governments here Monday and assured them that there were 20,000 foreign troops on the Bulgarian frontier.

One of the points of concentration is the town of Tzaribrod on the Bulgarian fortress which the Treaty of Neuilly gave to Yugoslavia. With such a concentration centring on Tzaribrod foreign military authorities here point out that it would be possible for Sofia to fall into Serbian hands within twenty-four hours.

It is understood that the foreign Ministers friendly to Bulgaria have transmitted to their Governments the information given them by the Bulgarian War Department through Premier Zankoff.

Fear Communist Capitulate.

The provincial Governor of Philippopolis reported to the Minister of the Interior Monday that fear of the counter-revolution organized in his district had capitulated with three remaining to be taken in the Panagurishtye district. Communications with the city of Panagurishtye are interrupted.

A penalty was found killed yesterday at Plevna, and a peasant's hat near the spot was taken to indicate that the assassin was an agrarian.

Many excesses such as those which characterized the early phase of the Russian Bolshevist revolution, are reported today from various sources both in North and South Bulgaria. Wherever the military succeeded in suppressing a local Soviet republic. There was a similar suppression of one in Devandilar, near Bakl-Dzumaia.

Sofia was closely guarded by infantry and cavalry last night, although free movement through the streets was maintained until 10 o'clock. Citizens were frequently challenged by the sentries. The prices of fruit and other provisions rose considerably during the day.

The Government announced Sunday night that the situation created by the Communist uprising, both in Northern and Southern Bulgaria, was in control of the military forces, aided by civilian volunteers. Sporadic outbreaks were continuing then, however, and the Communists had cut the wires leading from the telephone and telegraph central office at Sofia and from the artillery barracks.

The authorities then said they held the suspicion, founded upon the discovery of documentary evidence, that the design of the turbulent Communists was to exhaust Bulgaria's small military force by constant alarms in this way, and that various parts of the country with the idea of leading the volunteers to refuse duty on the ground that their efforts would be unavailing.

The Government, it was stated, was impressed with the inadequacy of the present volunteer army to cope with any situation menacing order on a national scale. It therefore had broached to the allied authorities the question of modifying the provisions of the treaty under which Bulgaria has been able to raise an armed force of only 7,200 men, desiring to obtain permission to strengthen the seven regiments by the enlistment of 1,000 additional men for each by the regular method.

No information was available regarding the attitude of the French, British and Italian military authorities toward the proposal.

Accumulating evidence connecting the Communist effort with the forces of the late Premier Stambouliski is throughout the vigilance of the Government officials in the north.

ALL GERMAN STATES BOW TO RUHR PEACE

By CYRIL BROWN.

parliamentary attacks, in that its resolve to surrender without having obtained concessions in advance from Premier Poincaré was fully communicated to the leaders of the Coalition parties as well as to all factors which are supposed to have a decisive influence on the deliberations of the Reichstag.

There are no indications at present that the Cabinet is in jeopardy and the courage displayed by the Chancellor in fearlessly tackling the hopeless Ruhr conflict is viewed in competent Reichstag quarters as a challenge to the present Coalition to "see it through" with him and his Cabinet.

It will be several days before the Government and Parliamentary leaders are in a position to consider the political and economic wreckage strewn along the path of passive resistance, and removal of the wreckage will unquestionably cause grave internal dissensions.

There are several technical niceties involved in the diplomatic aspects of the present situation, the chief of which concerns the question whether the German Government is obliged to apprise France and Belgium officially of its decision to abandon passive resistance unconditionally and declare that it will immediately repeal the numerous restriking ordinances decreed by it since the Ruhr was first occupied.

Any formal contract with the occupying Powers in the present situation, it is stated, might involve the question of recognizing the legality of the Franco-Belgian invasion, a point on which the German Government has already made numerous unequivocal declarations.

The Government also has not yet announced the nature of its preparation for getting the Civil Service government employes back to work, especially in cases where German public utilities are being operated by the French.

A transitional state which will not be wholly bereft of serious embarrassments for the German Government will inevitably result from the cumbersome process of liquidating the Ruhr muddle, even provided that the process is not halted by further intervention on the part of the occupying Powers or through an unexpected momentum in the Separatist movement.

Only scant editorial comment accompanied the publication this morning of the official communiqué announcing abandonment of the passive resistance.

"The official declaration means an end and a beginning," says the Vossische Zeitung, which views the Government's action as an exhibition of courage which has been sadly lacking at previous critical periods for Germany.

The Government's resolve will surprise no one who has followed the events of the last few weeks, remarks the Morgenpost. The newspaper adds that the long-delayed overthrow of the Cuno Cabinet obviously presaged the approaching end of the Ruhr battle, and that Chancellor Stresemann is now facing the thankless task of liquidating it.

"Sept. 24, 1923, is a day of mourning for the German people, but not a day of which they need to be ashamed," observes the Boersen Courier. The newspaper expresses the belief that, despite the physical exhaustion caused by "nine months' mute defiance of French machine guns, bayonets and tanks, passive resistance of hearts will go on and will eventually prove a precious asset in that it has spiritually welded the German people into a homogeneous whole."

Bavarian Threats Still Heard.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—With the eighteen Premiers of the same number of Federated German republics accepting the passive resistance capitulation today, the Government turned its attention to two sources of revolutionary danger—first, toward Bavaria, where General Ludendorff and Herr Hitler, according to German high officials, have requested 40,000 monarchists to join them in a march against Berlin, and, second, the Ruhr district, where hundreds of thousands of working men, agitated by Communists, refuse to begin work again.

Premier von Knilling of Bavaria today not only accepted the capitulation in the name of Bavaria but he officially pledged Bavaria's support to the Berlin Government, expressing himself against separatism and a monarchist revolution.

But simultaneously Wilhelmstrasse hears that secret organizations in Bavaria declare that the moment Premier von Knilling returns to Munich a military dictatorship will be declared.

FRANCE READY FOR PARLEY.

But Government Remains Cautious on Next Move by Germany.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The decision of the German Government to cease Ruhr resistance was received in Paris with great satisfaction, tempered with reserve. Having no confidence in German good-will, the French feel this week's victory is only a good beginning in a long and difficult task, for in addition to realizing that German surrender does not itself bring in any cash, Premier Poincaré is determined to impose conditions which will guarantee that resistance not only really stops, but does not begin again.

The only official statement at the Quai d'Orsay today was that France was willing to receive German proposals the moment the Government revokes the decrees organizing the "Ruhr resistance."

It is expected in Paris that Chancellor Stresemann will announce the action before the Reichstag on Friday.

M. Poincaré has worked out a reparations plan which he will submit first to the other Allies as soon as Germany has officially backed down. He will then consent to a conference with the Germans, not on the basis of equality, but for the purpose of discussing the execution of the terms to be laid down by the Allies through the Reparation Commission.

The sharp rise in the franc brings satisfaction to the politicians, but already French business is complaining of the effects of the too sudden recovery, which, of course, works disadvantages as well as a too sudden fall in money value.

The danger of internal disorders in Germany is viewed here as something France cannot do anything about for the moment, since to change her policy because of the danger of any such disturbances would, it is felt, put a premium on their execution. However, it is not to be supposed the French would quietly permit the accession of the monarchists to power in Berlin.

Political Effect Watched in France.

PARIS, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—The political situation in Germany as the aftermath of the decision to abandon the passive resistance in the Ruhr is being watched by the French Government with some anxiety in view of the possibilities of a nationalist movement, such as are tending to separate Bavaria from the Reich, the outbreak of mild Bolshevism in Prussia and fresh impetus to the separatist movement in the Rhineland. Should serious disturbances of any sort arise in the rest of Germany, it is thought they would most certainly have the result of increasing the number of Rhinelanders desiring to assure continuation of their tranquillity by separation.

In the event the cessation of passive resistance is not attended by violent outbreaks, the Allies will, it is assumed here, be faced at once with the necessity of providing for a new regime of occupation. The hypothesis is that the industrial leaders of the Ruhr, tired of the strict military decrees of the Berlin Government, will repeat the promises made after the beginning of the occupation, to pay the coal tax demanded by the occupation authorities and to cooperate with them.

Information gleaned from official circles here indicates there will be no stout objection to a change in the occupational regime, and that the French Government is quite willing to rid it as far as possible of its disagreeable features. The return of the German functionaries, however, is a more serious matter, since most of them are Prussians, and, it is feared by the Allies, are likely to raise new forms of obstruction. Clemency toward these Germans imprisoned is regarded as certain to follow a show by Poincaré of good faith on the part of the German Government in the execution of its obligations and a disposition on the part of the industrial leaders to cooperate with the Allies.

Premier Poincaré, it is understood, will also favor leaving it to the Germans to decide what reforms are required to put their finances in order and how to make ready to pay reparations, reserving to the Reparation Commission the right simply to supervise the working of these reforms and report whether they are sufficient to accomplish the end in view.

Until the character of the German financial reforms is known, the French Government will maintain its expectant attitude, reserving its judgment of events now passing in Germany until it appears clearly whether there is a real "change of heart" on the part of the Germans regarding the execution of their obligations. If such change has taken place, then it is thought here the other steps toward a reasonable settlement of the reparation question will be comparatively easy.

Calm satisfaction marks the comment of the afternoon papers on Germany's decision to abandon the passive resistance in the Ruhr. While the word "capitulation" is freely used in the headlines and articles, there is no premature exultation, as it is recognized that the German decision is but a preliminary to the settlement for which France is waiting.

The Temps asks of what good the victory is if useful negotiations do not follow, or if the Chancellor signing the capitulation is to disappear within a few days. In the latter case, it says, the German Government may argue that the passive resistance is continuing spontaneously, the Berlin authorities being unable to prevent it.

The Journal des Débats addresses its leading editorial article to the German people, saying they have a unique opportunity to finish with the men who deceived them, mentioning in this connection General Ludendorff and former Chancellor Cuno. The newspaper advises the Germans to recognize the truth of their position and to work peaceably to pay off their obligations.

RUHR POPULATION CALM.

End of Long Struggle Received With Complete Indifference.

DUESSELDORF, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—The decision of the Berlin Government to cease passive resistance in the Ruhr and the Rhineland (has far has not produced a single ripple of disturbance among the population of the Ruhr. Notwithstanding leading editorial articles in the German newspapers, even as late as Monday, predicting that there would be a spontaneous outburst of disorder if passive resistance were abandoned unconditionally, the news of its actual abandonment could not have produced a more undramatic effect.

FRENCH CONCESSIONS HINTED.

Washington Believes Poincaré Will Strengthen Stresemann.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The European situation was declared at the White House today to present a more hopeful appearance.

Reports of the change in the policies of the German Government with respect to the French occupation of the Ruhr and of what was taken to be a reaction in the sentiments of the French people and Government have been presented to President Coolidge through the State Department from American diplomatic representatives abroad.

The President furthermore is closely watching the situation as revealed in press reports, and altogether he feels there appears to be some hope of settlement between Germany and France.

A belief has been apparent here for some time that Premier Poincaré might make some concession to Germany, in form at least, perhaps primarily to strengthen politically the Stresemann Ministry in Berlin, in case passive resistance were officially declared at an end. The present German Ministry, it is generally felt, is more desirable for France than what might succeed it.

Although the first signs of a spirit of conciliation on the part of the German and the French Governments are regarded hopefully, it is felt that much remains to be accomplished before optimism would be warranted in any large degree. To what extent the Governments are actually prepared to move and the reactions such a move might have upon the peoples concerned are questions the answers to which are awaited with keen interest.

BRITISH DECISION TODAY.

Cabinet Will Take Up German Surrender—Baldwin to Speak.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The attitude of the British Government toward the German surrender will be decided at a Cabinet meeting tomorrow and it is generally accepted that the Government will go as far as it can to confirm the good impression Mr. Baldwin made last week on M. Poincaré by giving France as much support as it possibly can.

It may however, be some days before Mr. Baldwin makes a definite pronouncement, even though he has to deliver an important speech on Thursday at the College of Conservative Political Agents, near Northampton. He is likely, though, to keep to safe generalities, partly because Great Britain cannot regain her lost initiative on the Ruhr problem until she knows precisely what Germany offers and France thinks and partly because she must consult the Dominion Premiers.

Most of them will be here by Sunday and they have an undoubted right to be considered. The Ruhr question involves the security of France as well as the payment of reparations, and after the events of the last ten years they cannot be indifferent to guarantee treaties into which the mother country enters. They are, too, independent members of the League of Nations and have just as much right to have their views heard in London as at Geneva.

GERMAN POLICE TRACE ARMS TO SOVIET AGENT

Two Secret Depots of Communists Said to Have Been Provided by Attache.

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Notwithstanding denials by the official Soviet diplomatic agents in Berlin, the espionage section of the Berlin police claim to be in possession of unimpeachable evidence connecting an attaché of the Soviet embassy with two extensive depots of arms and munitions discovered on premises occupied by Communists. The police have produced documentary evidence allegedly implicating a Russian named Petroff in the purchase of machine guns and ammunition. They charge that he was employed at the Russian Embassy in Unter den Linden.

The denial of the embassy admits that several men named Petroff have been employed by it. One of them occupied himself with "military subjects."

COMPLAINANT IS PUNISHED.

Two Accused Members of New Rochelle Yacht Club Cleared.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Charles A. Moreland, former commodore of the New Rochelle Yacht Club, and John R. Brophy, Brooklyn, also a member, were exonerated today by the directors of the club of charges made by Sterling F. Story, 19 Division Street, New Rochelle, also a member. The directors dismissed Story as a member because "in preferring charges against the yachtsmen he not only violated the club's regulations but also tangled into disrepute, as his charges were unfounded."

WOMEN OPEN WAR ON COAL PROFITEERS

City-Wide Canvass Launched to Determine Needs and Basis for Prices.

SUGAR RISES ALSO SCORED

Another Boycott May Be Ordered if Quotation Doesn't Drop From 10-Cent Level.

Threats to urge New York housewives to adopt oil-burning devices, if a coal gouge develops, and to institute a second sugar boycott, if prices continue to rise, were made yesterday at a meeting of the Investigation Committee of the Women's Market Committee in the office of Mrs. Louis Reed Welsmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets. Mrs. Welsmiller, at the instance of Commissioner Edwin J. O'Malley, called together representatives of 60,000 families to launch an inquiry into the coal and sugar situations.

The women decided that on the basis of the prestrike price of $13.50 a ton, quoted by Burns Brothers, who, the Department of Public Markets say, supply 65 per cent. of the requirements of this city, $14.10 a ton was the logical price for the Winter's fuel. Any advance, the women said, was profiteering and would be met with vigorous action. The $14.10 figure was arrived at by adding the 60 cents a ton increase in wages to the miners to the generally accepted quotation for orders placed with dealers in August.

A field force of 150 investigators will start work immediately, it was announced, and the Police Department has been asked to co-operate in order to facilitate a speedy survey. Members of the Investigation Committee declared that preliminary inquiries revealed that there was a considerable mystery in the coal situation in New York. It was pointed out that while the railway yards in the suburbs were crammed with coal, little, if any, was coming into New York and retailers refused either to name a price or to make deliveries. Mrs. Welsmiller who had just returned from a survey of the coal depots said in the yards of the Lehigh Valley Railroad 300 cars, each containing from 40 to 60 tons, were arriving daily. She estimated that not less than 60,000 tons of coal was arriving in the environs of New York every twenty-four hours.

Charges were made that this coal was being held up or diverted to other points, so that when the cold snap came dealers could add two or three dollars a ton to the price. It was brought out that of the 11,000,000 tons New York needs this Winter less than one-third had been supplied. A letter from a Staten Island resident was read reporting there were 100 barges each containing 1,000 to 1,200 tons of coal lying unassigned in the lower bay.

The chief efforts of the Investigation Committee will be directed toward securing from all dealers a standard price of $14.10 a ton.

Aims of the Canvass.

It was agreed that the task of the 150 investigators should be as follows:

1. A house-to-house canvass to determine the needs of the housewife.

2. A review of the coal yards to find out how much coal there is in the hands of the dealers.

3. What price is being asked in the various sections of the city by dealers and small retailers who sell by the pound.

4. Inquiry among housewives as to the feasability of substituting fuel oil for coal.

Evidence was not lacking that in some parts of the city coal dealers and others already were taking advantage of the situation. Representatives of Bronx associations said that although 85 per cent. of the apartment houses there had been stocked with their Winter coal, landlords were shutting off the hot water on the ground that increased prices did not permit them to give full service. They also said that on orders of fifty tons of coal three tons of coke were sent at $16 a ton.

From Brooklyn came complaints that although coal had been ordered in early Summer at $14 a ton, dealers were charging $16 and $17 a ton, and then not promising delivery. Small dealers, it was charged, were selling odd lots at the rate of $1 per 100 pounds, or at the rate of $20 a ton.

Westchester Situation Bad.

Letters from residents in Westchester County showed that the situation there was worse than in New York. Mrs. Louise Gross, President of the Women's Democratic Club, writing from White Plains, said:

"Advance orders were made last July for delivery in September at $14 a ton. Inquiries among local retailers reveal that the price has jumped mysteriously from $14 to $16.50, and in some cases as high as $18.50. Moreover, the dealers say they do not know when they can deliver. Some optimists speak of possible deliveries next month."

When the coal situation has cleared up, housewives will tackle sugar profiteers. The Investigating Committee said yesterday sugar was being sold at an advance of two to three cents a pound, and now averaged 10 cents a pound. Sugar should sell at eight cents, they said. Grocers offered the excuse that refiners were putting up the price, while the refiners pointed out that raw sugar was now about 5 cents a pound. The raw sugar merchants blamed the scarcity of receipts from Cuba. It was pointed out at the meeting that the Louisiana and domestic sugar crops soon would be available so that talk of a possible shortage in Cuba was no excuse for a rise in price.

Unless sugar prices return to a stable level of 9 cents a pound, a boycott on the same lines as the last successful one would be demanded, the Investigating Committee announced.

CABINET DISCUSSES FARM FREIGHT CUTS

years ago corn was selling far below the pre-war price.

"Next year it may be something else," said Mr. Wallace. The wheat situation, he contended, was only one symptom of "a generalized and serious trouble." The real trouble, he felt, was to establish fair rates between agriculture and other things.

Little Faith in Price Fixing.

Secretary Wallace said he had little faith in the efficacy of arbitrary Government price-fixing of any one crop. Even if it should afford temporary help, it would almost certainly within a short time make conditions for the farmer worse instead of better. He admitted that the buying and holding of a large part of the surplus wheat, or any other annual crop, might be of temporary benefit, but he contended that unless production of that crop were controlled it would also make conditions worse. An annual crop must be sold annually, not accumulated, he held.

In concluding his report, Secretary Wallace said that industry and labor enjoyed all the benefits of the domestic market, while agriculture depended in large part on the world market. His plan, he said, was simply an effort to get agriculture off the world market and give it the benefits and privileges which industry and labor now enjoyed.

While a good part of the rather protracted Cabinet meeting was given up to hearing and discussing Secretary Wallace's report, various other suggestions resulted from the discussion. It was mentioned that the Interstate Commerce Commission is now considering the matter of reducing freight rates on agricultural products, especially wheat and flour, and apparently it was agreed that if these rates were lowered a raise of freight rates on other commodities might be expected, in order to overcome the losses of the railroads.

This phase of the discussion brought out that some railroads were almost entirely dependent upon the transportation of agricultural products and would fare badly in comparison with other railroads if rates on farm commodities were lowered without some means of compensating them. To injure these roads, it was agreed, would be bad policy.

Cold is Higher Wheat Duty.

A suggestion that the duty on imported wheat, now 30 cents a bushel, should be raised did not find any ready sympathy. President Coolidge, it was said, holds the opinion that the tariff on farm products is helping the American farmer, but he has not been convinced that increasing the duties would be a remedy for existing conditions with respect to wheat. There seemed to be some doubt in the minds of the President and Cabinet as to whether the Constitution would permit placing an export bounty on wheat, but the suggestion that such bounty be laid apparently did not make any impression at the Cabinet table.

It is apparent from today's proceedings in the Cabinet room and from other things that the Coolidge Administration intends to submit a program of remedial legislation to Congress for the benefit of the farming classes. Just what the attitude of the President will be toward certain plans to be submitted in behalf of agricultural communities is not yet clear.

On Thursday the President will confer with bankers, business men and farm representatives from the Ninth Federal Reserve District, which embraces Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Montana and the northern peninsula of Michigan, in regard to a scheme for relieving the wheat situation which they will present. This scheme contemplates the revival of the war-time Federal Grain Corporation, with an appropriation of $50,000,000 by Congress to enable it to buy wheat and hold it until prices are better.

In his report, Secretary Wallace advocated the organization of a Government corporation to deal with the export of agricultural products, but whether his proposal will fit in with the plan to be advocated by the delegation from the Ninth Federal Reserve District has not appeared.

To Hear Expert Advice.

It was said at the White House today that when the President conferred with this committee he would have with him Secretary Wallace, Secretary Hoover, and Eugene Meyer Jr., Managing Director of the War Finance Corporation. At the White House a tribute was paid to Mr. Meyer's knowledge of financial conditions affecting agriculture.

At the outset of the report discussed today Secretary Wallace reviewed what the Government had been doing in the last two years to help the farmer. He alleged that during the war the Government, by appeals to the patriotism of capita consumption of both wheat and meat, had caused large advances in freight rates, had increased living costs to the farmers, and had carried out a post-war deflation policy until the Summer of 1920 "which many believe to have been directed against agriculture." All these things had injured agriculture, he held, and he insisted that as the Government was responsible, it now assume the responsibility of attempting a remedy.

The period covered by Mr. Wallace as injurious to the farmers through Governmental action was that of the Wilson Administration.

Frazier Urges Special Session.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota called on President Coolidge today and urged relief for the farmers, thousands of whom, he said, were being forced into bankruptcy because of present unfavorable conditions. The President said he was anxious to learn about conditions and to do what he could to better them.

When asked about the proposal to reduce the present tariff schedule on flax, the President said he would not be favorable to any action that would lower the price of the farmers' products.

Senator Frazier stated that he felt a special session of Congress could do much toward relieving the situation, and, although the time was growing short until the next regular session, if it was announced that a special session would be called it would result in keeping the wheat off the market. This, in itself, he thought, would have a wholesome effect on the price of grain.

The Senator said he did not believe the East was fully aware of the actual conditions and how acute was the need for prompt remedial legislation to save the farmers of the Northwest, and with them the business men and bankers, who were being forced to the wall by the same economic inequalities that were crushing agriculture.

The President, Senator Frazier said, expressed his sympathies for the farmers, but seemed to be undecided as to what could be done for their relief.

Capper Urges Lower Freights.

SALINA, Kan., Sept. 25.—Lowering of freight rates is one of the most important steps toward remedying agricultural conditions, Senator Arthur Capper told the State-wide Educational Assembly of the Farmers' Union here today. He declared against consolidation of the lines as dangerously tending toward monopoly.

The Senator favored accepting Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals offer to give "the man in America who can do it best" a chance to smash the fertilizer monopoly. "The Truth in Fabric" bill was another measure which Mr. Capper urged in order that clothing manufacturers could not "sell shoddy for all wool."

BELGIAN IS WINNER OF BALLOON RACE

Either Demuyter, Who Landed in Sweden, or Veenstra, Still Unheard From, Is the Victor.

RULES MAY BE CHANGED

Bodies of Two American Victims Are Turned Over to Ambassador at The Hague.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Belgium appears to have won the international balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett Cup again this year, either with Demuyter, the landing of whose balloon Belgica at 1 o'clock yesterday about the centre of Sweden gives him a distance of about 600 miles, or with Veenstra, piloting the Prince Leopold, whose fate at the moment is still unknown.

Demuyter's distance last year, when he won the trophy, was 875 miles and his time then was twenty-five hours, as compared with twenty-one hours this year.

The tragic race which started Sunday from the broad plain of Solbosch, outside of Brussels, caused the death of five pilots or aids, the grave injury of one and less serious injuries to four others, the destruction of several of the balloons and the fall of two of them into the sea—all of which may lead to the race rules being changed for future contests.

DuBois, who had a miraculous escape when the French balloon Savoie fell mass-like, owing to the snow which collected on it, wants the race in June or July. Others are strongly of the opinion that a more favorable season of the year for the contest would mean less danger to the lives of the contestants.

President Jacobs of the Belgian Aero Club is against changing the regulations so fars as concerns postponing the start. The date was chosen, he says, because cyclonic conditions existed which were necessary for distance and desired by the pilots. Anti-cyclonic conditions would give no interesting results. The equinoctial period was chosen because then the ruling winds in Belgium carry the balloons toward Central and Southern Europe, not towards England and the ocean. The James Gordon Bennett Cup, he added, was always competed for at this time of the year.

A telephone message from Amsterdam confirms reports of another accident in the balloon race. Major Baldwin, piloting the British balloon Banshee III., and his aid, Captain Dunville, were badly injured on their heads and legs in making a difficult landing at Eerent, Holland, Sunday evening. The basket of the balloon caught on the roof of a building, throwing the occupants to the ground.

The bodies of Lieutenants Robert S. Olmsted and John W. Shoptw, the two American Army officers who were killed in the wreck of the balloon S-6, have been given into the possession of the American Ambassador at The Hague, who will take charge of sending them direct to the United States from a Dutch port.

Military honors will be accorded to the victims of the accidents. The funerals will be held either Wednesday or Thursday.

The coffins of the two dead Lieutenants are covered with the American flag which the balloon carried.

All the property of the two victims was found intact with the exception of Lieutenant Olmsted's watch, only the broken chain remaining. It is supposed the pilot had the watch in his hand when he was struck by lightning.

Peasants who witnessed the catastrophe tell how they saw four balloons flying overhead, the Army S-6 soaring highest, when it was struck by the bolt. The envelope was still in flames when the balloon reached the ground, but the peasants were able to extricate the bodies and prevented them from being consumed. Dr. Van Binsbergen immediately examined them, but could only certify to life being extinct.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 25.—The Spanish balloon Espheria, one of the racers for the James Gordon Bennett Cup, landed Sunday night at Woldendorp, Province of Groningen. Guillen and Delaliecy, the aeronauts, were injured in landing when the balloon touched a live electric wire.

THINKS CANYON PARTY SAFE

Director Birdseye Declares Disaster to Explorers "Inconceivable."

PEACH SPRINGS, Ariz., Sept. 26.—Roger W. Birdseye, Director of the Land Work of the United States Geographical Survey's expedition to chart the Colorado River, expressed today the belief that the river party is safe and will arrive at Diamond Creek, Ariz., about Oct. 1.

"I see no reason to be stampeded from a strong belief that all is well with the party," he said. "Disaster to the entire party or any major part of it is inconceivable. Accidents to individual members or boats are, of course, possible, but any calm consideration of the facts must tend to allay the anxiety of those most concerned in the safety of the expedition."

Due to the storm and flood in the canyon country, Mr. Birdseye predicted the surveyors would arrive at Diamond Creek about three days later than scheduled.

DENIES BURGLARY CHARGE.

Loot Found in Raid—Ex-Head of Community Council Held.

John Sullivan, until a few weeks ago President of the Hunters Point Community Council, was held in $1,500 bail on a charge of burglary in the Long Island City Police Court when arraigned yesterday before Magistrate James J. Conway. He pleaded not guilty and obtained an adjournment of one week to enable him to get counsel.

Detectives on Monday night raided a soft drink parlor owned by John Slattery at Vernon Avenue and Broadway, Astoria. In an upper room the detectives found silk and wool knit sweaters, later identified by Herman Steizenberg as having been stolen from his factory at 21-23 Borden Avenue, Long Island City, a month ago.

Sullivan, who was behind the soft drink counter, said he was in charge of the place. He denies knowledge of how the goods got in the upper room.

SWEDISH PRIMATE HERE.

Delegations and Municipal Band Greet Archbishop Soederblom.

The Most Rev. Nathan Soederblom, Archbishop of Upsala and Primate for the Church of Sweden, arrived yesterday from Gothenburg on the Swedish-American liner Drottningholm and was met at Quarantine by thirty members of the Swedish-American colony in this city on the police boat Macon. The Municipal band on the Macon played Swedish airs.

At the pier the Primate was welcomed by more than 300 Swedish-Americans, including many Lutheran clergymen, and was escorted by them to the City Hall, where he was welcomed by Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert. He will make his first address on Friday evening at City College under the auspices of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Orders Parsons Paper Assets Sold.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 25.—Federal Judge W. E. Baker today authorized Arthur J. Stevens, receiver of the bankrupt Parsons Pulp and Paper Company, to accept the offer of $337,117 by a group of New York bankers, headed by C. W. Weston, for the unmortgaged assets of the company. The same group of bankers had previously purchased the timber estate of the company, which has holdings in West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina with an estimated value of $2,000,000.

theory, while American scientists have been loath to accept it without further confirmation."

Expect Collection Early in Year.

"We have hitherto known nothing of the history of Central Asia. There has never been even a tooth of a dinosaur found in this region, although it has been felt by scientists that it might prove to be a rich field for exploration.

"The present sensational discovery is not in any sense the result of accident. The expedition was thought out and planned on thoroughly scientific lines. When Mr. Andrews explored the region in search of modern specimens he made a report as to his observations respecting the geological characteristics of the country, and when it was learned that it was not, as even the Chinese had believed a sandy desert, but rather a "bad-land" region, we were more than ever sure that Central Asia would yield a mine of interesting things.

"Three of the most expert fossil collectors in the world were sent to join Mr. Andrews, Peter Kaisen and George Olsen, of the Museum staff, Albert Johnson, and Dr. Walter Granger. To Mr. Andrews as head of the expedition fell the responsibility of attending to the details of supplies and transportation, as well as the diplomatic arrangements—the last a matter of the greatest importance.

"Everything has apparently worked out without the slightest hitch and the results have surpassed our most extravagant hopes. Two auto trucks and three passenger automobiles were used, besides a caravan of seventy camels, which carried th supplies. By this method the expedition accomplished as much in one season as would ordinarily requireten under old conditions of travel.

"The collection will probably reach New York about the first of the year, but the public should understand that months and years will be required to prepare the tons of specimens for exhibition. One skull alone often takes six months of careful work, and a whole skeleton two or three years. We have only a limited number of people competent to prepare the specimens, as an infinite amount of damage could be caused by careless handling."

The age of the fossil remains is to be measured in millions of years, Dr. Matthew said, although it is impossible to estimate their antiquity with any accuracy. He said that the results of the expedition would enable the reconstruction of Asiatic life in the dinosaur period.

Following is the text of a cable received by Asia Magazine on September 24, which was given to the Museum:

PEKING.—Forty-six men, five cars, safe, well, 3,000 miles Mongolia, nine tons fossils, Central and Eastern Gobi desert, seven life zones, early age of reptiles to middle age of mammals.

Western Gobi, seventy skulls, ten skeletons, primitive horned Ceratopsian dinosaurs and contemporary carnivores, dinosaurs, three nests, twenty-five dinosaur eggs, first ever discovered.

Eastern Gobi, three quarries, many lowland duck bill dinosaurs and carnivores in age of mammals successfully explored four life zones. Eocene, two Upper Oligocene with relationship to American, Western European and American Rocky Mountain life zones. This substantiates central Asiatic dispersal and land bridge theory.

Ruch collection, skulls and limbs, seventy-five specimens, large titanothere quadrupeds hitherto known Wyoming and Dakota. Total over 1,000 individual specimens. Eutinoe reptile mammal world record single season. Two-thirds collection safe Kalgan, remainder camel caravan crossing Gobi, due November, friendly support Mongol Government, natives throughout resident.

Osborn arrived Peking proceeded Mongolia joining party center Gobi desert. He examined fossil beds, work, personnel, equipment expedition, returning with party Peking headquarters. He considers season's success far surpasses expectations American Museum and other supporters of expedition. Confident two remaining objects of Third Asiatic will be attained in the future.

ANDREWS.

OPPOSE ARIZONA'S PLAN.

Colorado Citizens Say Canyon Project Would Greatly Injure Them.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Arizona plan for development of the Colorado River would mean the absolute control of the waterway to the detriment of other interested States, representatives of Colorado said today at a hearing before the Federal Power Commission.

The hearing was a continuation of that sought by a committee from Arizona, headed by Governor Hunt, to lay before the commission its reasons for refusing to ratify the Colorado compact. Denying that the interests of Arizona would be injured if the agreement as now drawn became effective, witnesses today declared the latter State sought to monopolize the great waterway.

Reference was made by Colorado's spokesmen to plans for construction in the Arizona section of the river a reservoir so great that it would take "one year and eight months at average flow to fill it." If this was done, the commission was told, and the rule of "prior appropriation" upheld, practically no water would be beyond the reservoir.

GIANTS DEFEAT REDS AND INCREASE LEAD

Watson Outpitches Luque and Champions Squeeze Out a 3 to 2 Victory.

MEUSEL'S BAT A FACTOR

Irish Drives Deciding Run Across—Losers Threaten With Two Out in the Ninth.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—Defeating the Reds here today by a score of 3 to 2, the Giants jumped their lead in the pennant race back to four full games. John Watson outpointed Adolfo Luque in a pitching duel, being nicked for one run in the first inning and another in the ninth, but hurling steadily in the innings which intervened. Luque, with only one day's rest, made a game effort to beat the Giants but couldn't quite make it. He was derricked for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning, and Rube Benton faced the champions in the ninth. Irish Meusel drove the winning run over the plate in the third inning.

The Reds scored in the first inning after the Giants had wasted a fine opportunity to do the same. The Giants' chance came on a double by Bancroft and his progress to third base on a long fly by Groh, but Frisch could not get the ball past Daubert, and Bancroft was out at the plate.

Two pitched balls were all the Reds needed to make their run in this inning. Burns hit the first ball pitched by Watson to right centre for two bases and Daubert stepped to the plate and drove Watson's first delivery to right for two bases, sending Burns over the plate.

The score was tied by the champions in the second inning. Meusel rapped the ball to left for three bases and crossed the plate when Stengel singled to right. Kelly lined a single to centre on which Stengel was compelled to pull up at second base. Then came a double play, Pinelli to Kimmick to Daubert, on a grounder from Gowdy's bat that stopped the Giants abruptly.

Bancroft and Groh singled to right in the third inning. The runners clung to their bases when Frisch flied to Roush, but Bancroft scored when Young singled to left. Meusel followed with another single, scoring Groh. A base on balls to Stengel filled the bases, but Kelly hit to Pinelli, who started a double play that retired the side.

Bancroft rapped a single to centre in the sixth following strikeouts by Gowdy and Watson, but Hargrave was nailed him with a throw to Fowler when he tried to steal second.

The Reds gave the Giants a scare in the ninth when, with two out, Duncan singled to centre and raced to third on Hargrave's single to right. Pick was pulled to run for Hargrave and Pinelli shot a single to centre scoring Duncan and sending Pick to third. However, Fowler hit to Bancroft, who flipped the ball to Frisch, forcing Pinelli and ending the game.

TIGERS BEAT YANKS IN THE NINTH, 5-4

Cobb's Single Starts Rally That Nets 3 Runs—Meusel and Hendrick Hit Homers.

Just by way of reprisal for the harsh treatment suffered on Monday, the Detroit Tigers thrashed the champion Yankees at the Stadium yesterday, 5 to 4, adding the proper touch of revenge by winning the game in the ninth. Entering the final round, Ty Cobb's merry men were on the short end of a 3 to 2 count; emerging, they enjoyed a 5 to 3 lead. In between was a bit of action that deserves further elaboration.

Bam Owen, the Yankee' best pitcher, was rushed in to pitch the last inning, and Cobb, acting as a pinch hitter, shins. Blue popped out, but Bobby Jones singled to centre and sent Cobb to third. Then Manush batted for Fothergill and doubled, scoring Cobb with the tying run. Heilmann was purposely passed to fill the bases, but the strategy proved slightly sour when Veach singled and scored two more.

In their half the Yanks rallied and got a run on Meusel's triple and Ward's out, but that was all.

It was a nip and tuck affair for seven frames between Herb Pennock and Earle Whitehill, two southpaws. The Yanks got a run in the fourth on Meusel's homer into the left field seats. In the seventh the Tigers scored twice on doubles by Pinch Hitter Woodall and Blue and Heilmann's single. But in the eighth Hendrick smote a homer to right centre, evening the count again. Then Dugan and Ruth walked and Pipp singled for another run, putting the champs ahead. Why they didn't stay there through the ninth has been described.

YANKS OPEN SERIES IN STADIUM OCT. 10

American League Wins Toss to Decide Where Baseball Classic Will Begin.

GAMES TO START AT 2

Landis, Stoneham and Ruppert Among Those at Meeting Here—Price Scale Discussed.

The first game of the coming world's series will be played at the Yankee Stadium on Wednesday, Oct. 10. This was decided yesterday at a meeting at the Hotel Commodore, attended by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, Leslie O'Connor, Secretary to the Commissioner; Charles A. Stoneham, President of the Giants; Jacob Ruppert, President of the Yankees; James J. Tierney, Secretary of the Giants, and Edward Barrow, business manager of the Yankees.

The American League representatives won the toss of the coin to decide where the series would open. It was announced that if the Giants win the National League pennant, the games will alternate between the Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds. In the event that the Reds are successful in the National League race, the first two games will be played at the Yankee Stadium and the second two at Redland Field in Cincinnati. The games will start at 2 o'clock, as has been the custom in past years.

If the entire series is played in this city, the same scale of prices will prevail as has been in effect for the last two years. Box seats will cost $6.60, reserved seats, $5.50; unreserved grandstand seats, $3.30, and bleacher seats, $1.10. These prices include the war tax.

SAYS PUBLIC HEALTH NEEDS RED CROSS

Surgeon General Cummings Urges Adoption of Auxiliary Program at Convention.

JAPAN FUND NOW $9,504,000

Original Amount Asked Doubled in Three Weeks—Woods to Occupy Takeda's Palace.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Declaring that the physical deficiencies disclosed in war time and the widespread influenza epidemic had created a public health conscience, Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings of the Public Health Service advocated an auxiliary public health program for the American Red Cross in addressing its convention today. He said a very vital question to the Red Cross and to the public at large centred in this "large and legitimate field which the American Red Cross should cultivate with advantage to the organization and untold benefit to the people of this country."

"Through education and stimulation of the people in taking care of themselves, by taxes wisely expended through their own carefully selected public servants, great good might be accomplished, he added. The activities of the organization in this respect should be taken with a view to the establishment of governmental agencies to which, finally, the work would be turned over.

James L. Fieser, Vice Chairman in charge of the domestic activities of the Red Cross, told in detail how the national organization mobilized overnight to care for the people in the Japanese earthquake sufferers, he having been in active charge during the days immediately following the catastrophe.

He recalled that ten years ago there were only 80 chapters and 110,000 Red Cross members in the United States. Today there are more than 3,000 chapters stretching from one end of the country to the other. More than 1,000 counties in the forty-eight States were now employing Red Cross public health nurses, he said. This staff had grown to huge proportions within the last five years. In one month alone more than 5,000 American women and girls had satisfactorily qualified in Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick.

"By this means," Mr. Fieser added, "that annually almost as many women as we have men in our standing army equip themselves in Red Cross classes, so that they may successfully fight illness and disease in their own homes.

Additional thousands had qualified, he said, to give Red Cross first aid, and a nation-wide campaign to eliminate the annual 8,000 drownings in the United States had resulted in the creation of more than 15,000 Red Cross life savers.

The dangers of malnutrition, particularly in children, was being combated by the formation throughout the country of Red Cross nutrition classes, in which thousands of American mothers and their children were learning the lessons of proper feeding.

The Red Cross drive for Japanese relief, which today had nearly reached $10,000,000, appears now to have broken several records for national fund drives. Not only has the original amount asked for been doubled but it has been doubled in exactly three weeks from the date the appeal was made.

The minimum quota of $5,000,000 was raised in two days, which in itself is a record, and today it was announced at Red Cross headquarters that of the $9,504,000 subscribed, $8,411,812.26 has actually been collected, a record for rapid collection. Officials predicted that the fund would reach $10,000,000 by tomorrow.

The director of accounts issued a statement this afternoon showing that $7,045,540.48 has been disbursed to date, either 1 nuctual expenditures or sailing commitments, a large part of which is being used to fill the requisitions submitted yesterday through Ambassador Woods for the Japanese authorities.

Advices from Japan, received by the Red Cross, state that the Japanese Imperial family had invited members of the Diplomatic Corps to occupy the royal palaces. Ambassador Woods had accepted the offer of Prince Takeda's palace the despatch stated and Prince Matsukata had offered his residence to the American Red Cross committee.

ALIEN CASE UP AGAIN.

Judge Asked to Uphold Writ Barring Deportation of Girl.

The last step in the fight over whether Pauline Finck, 16 years old, a deaf mute, shall be permitted to remain in this country or be sent back to Poland came yesterday when her counsel asked Circuit Court Judge Mough to sustain the writ of habeas corpus obtained to prevent her deportation. Pauline, her mother and four sisters arrived here on Nov. 28, 1920. Only Pauline was refused admittance.

An examination by physicians at Ellis Island resulted in an opinion that she was feeble-minded and might become a dependant. The order of deportation was delayed for a year to permit further observation and to enable her to take advantage of whatever opportunities were offered for curing any mental defects. After six months physicians again pronounced her of feeble mind. Then a report by a special board of physicians was favorable to the girl and the certificate declaring her to be feeble-minded was withdrawn. Immigration Commissioner Tod, however, caused the girl to be examined again by a board of five, three of whom decided against the girl.

Commissioner Tod's consequent deportation order was blocked by the habeas corpus proceedings. Judge Mough reserved decision, which will be final.

TO LAY AIR SMOKE SCREEN.

Specially Fitted Plane Will Experiment at St. Louis Races.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—An especially equipped airplane will lay a smoke screen with a new gas developed by the Chemical Warfare Division of the army at the international air races to be held here Oct. 1, 2 and 3, it was announced today. The plane can lay a smoke cloud one mile long and 400 feet deep, it was said.

Contests Mrs. Minnie Grau's Will.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 25.—Objection to the probate of the will of the late Mrs. Minnie Grau of Huntington has been filed in the Surrogate's office by Anna Roubel of Manhattan, a sister of Mrs. Grau. An adjournment to Oct. 15 was granted. Mrs. Grau bequeathed her estate to Mrs. Minnie Mundorf, wife of Dr. George T. Mundorf of 229 East Twenty-seventh Street, Manhattan. Mrs. Mundorf lived with the Grau family for many years and was regarded as a daughter, although not formally adopted. Anna Roubel was not mentioned in the will.

Dr. Barnhill Accepts Call.

The Rev. Dr. Oliver Paul Barnhill, for the last seven years assistant pastor of the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, has accepted a call to the Fordham Reformed Church, Kingsbridge Road and University Avenue. He will be installed Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7.

SEVENTY MINERS LOST IN A FLOODED PIT

Only One Workman Escapes When Waters Break Through From Unused Scottish Mine.

GLASGOW, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Seventy lives are believed to have been lost early today in one of the worst colliery disasters in the history of the Scottish mines, when a deep pit at the James Mizmne Company's colliery near Falkirk was flooded.

The water broke through the walls of an adjoining pit which had not been used for many years. The active pit was flooded so quickly that there was no opportunity to warn the miners. They had no chance to get to the pithead and only one man escaped after the inrush of water began.

Frantic relatives of the victims rushed to the pithead, at which rescuers hastily began work, but little, if any, hope was entertained of saving any of the unfortunates.

SAVES CONVICT FROM CHAIR.

Gov. Smith Commutes Febrola's Sentence to Life Imprisonment.

ALBANY, Sept. 25.—Governor Smith today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on a convicted murderer and pardoned a youth convicted of burglary and jail-breaking.

On recommendation of the District Attorney of Westchester County, Frank Febrola was saved from the electric chair by the Governor's action. Febrola and Anaiello Paratti, co-defendant, were convicted at separate trials of first degree murder. Febrola's conviction was affirmed on appeal, while the Court of Appeals ordered the conviction of Anatello Paratti was never retried and was released.

After a visit from the boy's father today Governor Smith freed Fred Albert Hayes, convicted in Washington County December, 1918, of burglary in the third degree and sleeping from jail and sentenced to serve a sentence ranging from 4 years 6 months to 17 years. Executive clemency was recommended by the Judge before whom Hayes was convicted and the prosecutor in the case.

FIGHT DRY RATIFICATION.

Lawyer Declares Legislature Violated State Constitution.

Helen Mare Miller, a New York lawyer, announced yesterday that he had filed a petition with Attorney General Sherman setting forth that New York State's ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment was in direct violation of the provisions of the State Constitution. He asked for a public hearing.

Mr. Miller said that the application had been filed at the suggestion of Governor Smith, with whom he had been in correspondence on the subject. He said he had brought to the attention of the Governor the fact that several years prior to the State's ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment the Court of Appeals had decided in the case of Wynehamer vs. the People that the Legislature was forbidden by the State Constitution from passing any act which confiscated property in alcoholic liquors theretofore owned by citizens of the State and legally acquired.

PRESENTS TRAFFIC PRIZES.

Board of Estimate's Chief Engineer, Arthur S. Tuttle, Wins $1,000.

Harvey M. Corbett, President of the Architectural League of New York, and member of the firm of Helmle & Corbett, 132 West Forty-second Street, distributed last night at 9 o'clock at the Keith Palace Theatre the final prizes in the Traffic Problem contest held recently in the Keith Circuit Theatres in New York City. The winner of the first prize of $1,000 was Arthur S. Tuttle, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate; the second prize of $500 went to William M. Thom, 348 Pacific Street, Brooklyn; third prize of $250 to Roy L. McCardell of the Morning Telegraph.

The three final winners were selected from a list of sixty, composed of the three leaders of the competition in each of the Keith houses. Over two thousand proposals were submitted.

Forte Rican Confess Burglary.

A telephone call to the Morrisania Station yesterday morning that two men were prowling about the roofs of houses on St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx, brought Detectives McCarton and Rose to a five-story apartment house at 672 St. Ann's Avenue, where they arrested two Forte Ricans after a desperate battle. Several shots were fired. The prisoners described themselves as Juan Rivera, 18 years old, of 211 East Ninety-ninth Street, and Blas Gonzalez, 22 years old, of 222 East 100th Street. In Morrisania Court Magistrate Douras held them in $5,000 bail each for the Grand Jury when they pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary.

Manning to Preach at Consecration.

Bishop Manning will go to Washington Friday night to preach the sermon Saturday morning at the consecration of the Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman as Episcopal Bishop of Washington. Dr. Freeman for many years was rector of St. Andrew's Church, Yonkers.

BUSINESS WORLD

Floor Coverings Buyers Here.

Prominent buyers of floor coverings from all over the country will be in this city today to examine samples of the carpets and rugs to be sold at the auction of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company. Not for a long time has anything in the trade aroused so much interest as this sale, which begins on Monday, much of this interest being due to its unexpectedness. About $5,000,000 worth of merchandise will be disposed of. Although prices on the Spring lines of the Smith Company will not be named until the auction shows the trend of values, one of the other leading houses will price its goods today. A number of lines will be shown more or less tentatively.

No Marked Change in Gray Goods.

No marked change in gray goods was reported here yesterday. Some trading in print cloths took place between second hands and buyers on the basis of 9⅝ to 9 cents for 38½-inch 64-60s, but first hands were unwilling to trade at those figures. For the most part they asked 9¾ cents for this construction. Twelve cents was again their best price on 39-inch 68-72s, although some second hands were said to have sold them at 11⅞ cents. The sheeting end of the market showed nothing new. First hand asking prices were based on 9⅛ to 9¼ cents for 36-inch 5.50s.

More Spring Ginghams Priced.

Another prominent Spring line of ginghams, chambrays, &c., was opened here yesterday, when the fabrics sold through Smith, Hogg & Co. were priced. These are the quotations on some of the leading brands: Red Seal sephyrs and York seersuckers, 27-inch, 90 cents; York dress ginghams, 14 cents; Everett "Classics," 16½ cents; Berwick chambrays, plains and stripes, 19 cents; Criterion chambrays, 14 cents, and "White Pine" cheviots, 19 cents. All orders are taken subject to acceptance in this city and prices are subject to change without notice.

Garment Reorders Are Fair.

A fair volume of reorders for women's Fall garments is being received by local manufacturers. The demand lacks snap, but more activity is in prospect. Retailers bough rather lightly on their first visits and, as Fall merchandise has been shown for some time, replenishment will soon be necessary. Predictions are made of a shortage at an early date if retailers bunch their orders later, as manufacturers are cutting goods conservatively. Sports coats have been well reordered, but "dressy" garments are moving slowly, pending retail turnover. Fur fabric jaquettes are in good demand and steady reorders are coming through for dresses.

Yarns in Better Demand.

Further improvement is reported in the worsted yarn market. The knitting and dress goods trades are active buyers, and the business placed lately has tended to absorb made up yarns on order and in reserve. Men's wear yarns are in light demand, as the mills were well covered for the initial Spring business booked and cloth orders since then have been practically negligible. Jersey cloth yarns are in greater request, and the buying of them is proving of material aid to many spinners.

Sports Skirts in Favor.

Plain and pleated sports skirts for early Fall continue in good demand, particularly those made of camel's hair cloth. Those of velour in fancy raised patterns are favoring to the trade, and considerable play is being made on the pleated skirt in reps and novelty crêpes. Plain wool crêpes are in less favor. In formal skirts buyers are showing interest in silks and satins, particularly the ones with bodice attachments. Demand for these has been stimulated by the call for the popular velvet or duvetyn overblouse.

JAPANESE OCCUPATION ROUSES AMOY'S ANGER

City Threatens General Strike Unless Troops, Landed to Protect Formosans, Depart.

AMOY, China, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Held by Sun Yat-sen troops and besieged by the North China forces of General Chen Chiung-ming, the city of Amoy is today on the verge of a general strike as a protest against the landing of Japanese sailors and marines Sunday. If the strike becomes a reality it will mean the complete tie-up of all business here.

The Japanese landed to protect Formosans when fighting broke out between the latter and Chinese residents of the city. The boatmen and stevedores late Sunday afternoon declared a strike which affected particularly the majority of the foreign residents who reside on the little Island of Kolongsu, which is situated about half a mile off the city of Amoy.

Besides preventing the foreign business men from going to and from their establishments in Amoy, the strike has prevented the loading and unloading of all ships.

Since the landing of the Japanese the fighting between the Formosans and Chinese has virtually ceased. The Japanese sailors and marines are refusing to leave despite the continued threat of a general strike if they do not evacuate the city.

The Peking Government is reported to have ordered that General Chang Tso-ping, nominally in control of Amoy, be arrested and deprived of all his decorations and medals.

YALE'S REGULARS OUT.

Captain Mallory Among Those Missing From Blue Line-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—Yale's football scrimmage today was held with the thermometer above 80 degrees and with Captain Bill Mallory, Century Mihstead, Billy Neale, Monty Beaver and Newell Neidlinger out of the line-up. Except Neidlinger, these veterans are being reserved because of colds or slight indisposition. Neidlinger was used on the second eleven.

BINZEN WINS AT TENNIS.

Elliott H. Binzen and Percy L. Kynaston reached the semi-final round of the Castle Point tournament yesterday on the courts of the Hoboken Tennis Club. Binzen advanced by putting out Paul Martin at 6—4, 6—3, while Kynaston gained his bracket at the expense of Henry C. Tremaine, who went out at the same score. Today in the semi-finals Binzen will meet Fred C. Anderson and Kynaston will face A. J. Cawse.

REISELT BEATS CANNEFAX.

Wins Interstate Three-Cushion Match—Has High Run of 9.

Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia billiardist, defeated Robert Cannefax, representing New York, yesterday afternoon in the interstate three-cushion carom billiard championship tournament at the Strand Academy. The score was 60 to 41 in sixty innings. Reiselt had high runs of 9 and 7. Cannefax's highest runs were two clusters of five each.

More Than 2,000 Students at Smith.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 25.—Chapel exercises today opened the Fall term at Smith College. Registration has not been completed, but early enrollment figures indicate that the number of students this year will exceed 2,000, a new high record for the college.

BLAMES A SISTER SHIP.

Witness Says Destroyer in Collision Was Dodging Another.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.—The court on board the U. S. S. Florida, which is inquiring into the collision between the battleship Arkansas and the destroyer McFarland off Cape Cod Sept. 19, developed today evidence that the McFarland was forced into the position that caused her to be struck by the Arkansas in manoeuvring to get out of the way of the destroyer Bainbridge.

The statement was made by Junior Lieutenant Herbert Flenbaum, navigating officer of the McFarland, who was called to put in evidence the log and charts of his ship. Those of the Arkansas had been introduced earlier in the day. He is to testify more fully later in the hearings, which probably will occupy the greater part of this week.

The court is made up of Captain George W. Laws, commanding officer of the Wyoming as senior member; Captain George E. Gelm, commanding the Florida; Captain William L. Littlefield, commanding the Sharkey, with Major Clayton B. Vogel, U. S. M. C., as Judge Advocate.

The defendants, the two commanding officers, Captain Ridley McLean of the Arkansas and Commander H. L. Pense of the McFarland, have as counsel Captain White, acting for Captain McLean and Lieutenant Burke, U. S. M. C. of the Boston Navy Yard, for Commander Pense, with Commander H. P. Sadler of the Naval Torpedo Station as Associate.

Yesterday the testimony of several witnesses were heard, all, with one exception, from the Arkansas.

BRITTEN CHANGES VIEWS ON RUSSIA

Congressman Says Visit Convinced Him Soviet Government Will Not Do.

AUSTRIA COMING STRONG

Germany, He Found, Shows No Sign of Reviving From Her Disastrous Decline.

After being delayed twenty-four hours by fog and waiting for the tide, the Leviathan of the United States Lines docked at noon yesterday at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street, with 1,587 passengers, of whom 1,152 were in the first and second cabin. Captain Herbert Hartley, the master of the ship, said that it was one of the foggiest voyages he had ever experienced.

The chief incident on the voyage, Captain Hartley added, was a baby being born in the steerage on Monday, the first since the ship has been operated as a passenger liner. The baby was named Herbert Hartley Jurkow. He and his mother, who come from Czecho-Slovakia were doing quite well in the hospital on the after deck when the Leviathan docked.

Among the United States Senators and Congressmen returning from spending the Summer in Europe was Representative Frank A. Britten of Chicago, who spent three months abroad, during which he visited Russia, France, Germany and Austria to study conditions.

Petrograd Hard Hit.

"I visited Petrograd," said Congressman Britten, "and found general conditions there were much worse than they were in Moscow. The city's former population of 1,300,000 had dwindled to 700,000, of whom 130,000 were unemployed and suffering from lack of food. Living conditions in Russia generally are very bad and the people are ruled by the silent terror. Those who disagree with the Government are taken and shot behind the ear so that they die without suffering pain. I had a long talk with Tchitcherin which I cannot make public until I have told the President what transpired during the interview. The Soviet preaches atheism and attacks Christ.

Its motto, which is printed on a huge poster over the principal gate of the Kremlin in Moscow, reads in English: 'Religion is the opium of the State.' Nothing can be done in Russia under its present form of government. Americans who have obtained concessions from the Soviet have returned and proclaimed that living conditions have improved very much and other Americans who were going through the country in a private car, will return soon with rosy accounts of what the Soviet is doing for the people and how happy they are, but my views are different. I went alone and saw things for myself."

Congressman Britten added that he had visited Austria and found it recovering marvelously under the strict administration of High Commissioner Zimmerman, who had placed the Government on a business footing and restored the confidence of the people, so that they are subscribing to its internal loans.

Germany "Ground Down."

He said that Germany had sunk lower than any other country in Europe since the war and showed no signs of reviving. He disagreed with the policy of Premier Poincaré, who, he declared, was determined to grind France's old enemy down into the dust. This view he intended to communicate to President Coolidge, he added.

"but France has succeeded in completely ruining Germany she will regret it because the former will drag her down into the general chaos that will assuredly follow all over Europe," the Congressman said.

Senator Robinson said that in spite of the bitter hatred in the hearts of the respective peoples, necessity soon would compel at least a working agreement which would be the forerunner of a complete adjustment of the differences between the French and the Germans. In his opinion intervention by the United States at this juncture would not be effective. With regard to Italy, the Senator said that Mussolini was the great outstanding figure against the advance of Bolshevism in that country and his power is almost unlimited.

Senator Swanson said that Europe will have good crops this season and that there is a tendency all over the Continent to supercede parliamentary government with dictatorships, such as now control in Italy, Bulgaria, Spain and Russia. He predicted that the same thing would occur in Germany if her present financial chaotic condition is not straightened out.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee said that it was clear that France was simply able to pay her interest on the $3,000,000,000 debt to this country and the Foreign Debt Commission should take cognisance of the fact and urge an immediate settlement.

"The tax payers of France, are much more able to pay this interest than our tax payers," the Senator said.

In his opinion, Germany was in a worse condition at the present time than any other country in Europe.

Senator McKinley said he felt that if the Allies fixed a reparation sum within reason that Germany would meet the demand.

Among the Congressmen on board were Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, and J. E. Raker of California.

Charles Vernon Vickrey, General Secretary of the Near East Relief Association, who returned from Greece, Macedonia, Corfu and Turkey, where he has been for the last three months, said that the condition of the dispossessed peoples in the Near East was deplorable. In Persia the whole Assyrian race is in exile and the Black Sea ports are filled with Armenian and Greek refugees who dare not return to their once prosperous homes in Turkey and cannot find protection in any other country. It would require about $30,000,000 to take care of these unfortunate people, including about 80,000 orphans, Mr. Vickrey said.

Would Stop All Immigration.

Congressman Raker said that the next congress will place the 1890 census as the basis for the immigration quota instead of 1910 and added that if he had his way he would advocate complete suspension of immigration for the next ten years.

William C. Sproul, former Governor of Pennsylvania, denied he had said in London that President Harding might have lived if he had not stopped drinking. "What I really said," the ex-Governor explained, "was that the President always had been a drinking man but he was not a big drinker."

In Mr. Sproul's opinion there should be a modification of the Volstead act and liquors required for medicinal purposes should be obtainable at moderate prices. He received a radio message from his daughter to tell him that she had eloped with Lawrence P. Sharples of West Chester, Pa., while her mother was away on a motor trip, and sent them his congratulations by radio.

Another passenger was E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, the banker, who said he had been approached twice by representatives of twelve Governments with negotiations for loans, but had not entertained the offers seriously.

Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, wife of the High Commissioner of the United States in Constantinople, returned to see her mother, who is dangerously ill in Washington, and was taken off the ship Tuesday night at Quarantine.

BANKS FEAR WRECK OF FEDERAL RESERVE

Convention Committee Urges Changes to Eliminate Politics and Strengthen Board.

AGAINST FOREIGN BRANCHES

It Recommends That the Board Include Some Trained Bankers.

WOULD ADD TO ITS POWERS

Suggestion That It Take Over the Functions of the Controller of the Currency.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 25.—The Executive Council of the American Bankers Association, in convention here, approved today a report of the Economic Policy Commission criticizing features of the Federal Reserve act, which, it says, subject the Federal Reserve system to political control, and recommending six changes to save the Federal Reserve system from ruin.

The report suggests the restoration of the provision embodied in the original draft of the Federal Reserve act for the appointment of two members of the Federal Reserve Board by Federal Reserve banks, in order to insure the presence of trained bankers on the board. Other proposals to secure the services of high-class men on the board call for the election by the board of its own Governor and Vice Governor instead of having them to appointment by the President, and the granting of power to the President to reappoint members of the board at the end of their terms without confirmation by the Senate.

The recommendations also urge that the Governor of the board be made the Chairman of the board, with the Secretary of the Treasury replaced by the Under-Secretary as ex officio member of the board; that the chief functions of the Controller of the Currency be transferred to the Federal Reserve Board, and the Federal Reserve banks be forbidden to establish branches in foreign countries in the guise of agencies.

Forestalls Radical Attacks.

Submitted by Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, and Chairman of the Economics Policy Commission, the report makes plain that it is not an attack on the Federal Reserve system, but is an attempt to save it from radical attacks on American democratic institutions foreseen by the bankers at the next session of Congress. Most of the bankers are strong for the Federal Reserve as a sound economic principle, but they are convinced that it must be strengthened so that it can withstand the attempts being made to discredit it. The report follows in part:

"The commission looks with disfavor upon the authority recently given by the Federal Reserve Board to two Federal Reserve Banks to establish, under the guise of agencies, organizations of their own in Cuba.

"It believes that the precedent thus established is fraught with the most serious dangers and it suggests that the Federal Reserve Board reconsider its policy adopted in this regard, or failing that, that an amendment to the Federal Reserve act be sought forbidding the establishment by any Federal Reserve Bank of branches in foreign countries under the guise of agencies.

Against Other Foreign Branches.

"Your commission is not unmindful of America's duties toward Cuba and of our vast commercial and financial interests on that island, but it believes the object to be attained by the opening of Federal Reserve Bank branches in Cuba could be accomplished in other ways that would not create so fateful a precedent.

"Once the principle involved is broken down, your commission fears there is no telling whither, ultimately, the Federal Reserve system may drift, and your commission is alarmed, though not surprised, to learn that proposals already are materializing designed to secure from the Federal Reserve Board permission to operate similar branches in other countries.

"Your commission does not wish to indicate any doubt whatsoever as to the qualification of any single member of the board serving at this time. What your commission is discussing is the composition of the board as a whole. Your commission does not believe in the representation as such. It believes that the first qualification of every member should be his ability faithfully and effectively to serve the interests of the country as a whole. But, just as much as it disapproves of class representation, just as strongly does it protest against class discrimination, where plainly the best interests of the country would require the inclusion among the members of the board of men who could be recognized, and with justice, as expert in banking of national reputation.

"If the Federal Reserve system is to survive, and if it is to render the invaluable services which it can give if properly protected and directed, it is imperative that the position of the Federal Reserve Board be strengthened and that measures be taken which would assure for it the continued service of the best men the country can produce for the job.

Want Senate's Hands Off.

"The question ought to be examined whether or not it would be possible in some way to revert to some scheme embodied in the first draft of the Federal Reserve act or whether it may not be possible to provide that members of the board, at the expiration of their terms, might be reappointed by the President without subjecting them once more to the hazards of a confirmation by the Senate.

"Service on the board would prove more attractive if the board itself were permitted to designate its governors and give governors, instead of having the President charged with the duty of probing and denoting individual members according to his preference.

"It may be worth while to amend the Federal Reserve act so as to make the Governor the Chairman of the board, the Under Secretary of the Treasury becoming a member of the board ex-officio, instead of the Secretary of the Treasury himself, who is generally so overburdened with other duties that it is quite impossible for him to be a regular attendant at the board's meetings.

"Finally your commission wishes to reiterate the recommendation that the major functions of the Controller of Currency be transferred to the Federal Reserve Board with a view to bringing about a simplification and uniform system of examination and rulings. The present system makes for costly duplication, and, in the past, often has led to unnecessary delay and irritation.

"We, as bankers, recognize above all other people the benefits which our country has derived from the Federal Reserve system. It has become a truism that we could not have financed the war properly had it not been for the Federal Reserve system. Yet errors in detail are beginning to obscure in the minds of large classes of our people the benefits which all have derived from this financial structure. The result has been that Congress has amended the Federal Reserve act in ways which appear not to have improved it.

"If America wants a continuance of this financial structure, if its charter is to be renewed, its fundamental principles must not be perverted and American public opinion must be brought to an understanding that this system was the result of the most painstaking study of the financial system of the civilized world; to an understanding of the interdependence of the Federal Reserve System and American commercial life; and that unless intelligently supported Federal Reserve Banks may follow the way of the first and second banks of the United States."

Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Bank of New York, in an address on "The Economic Stage and the Banker's Role," said that the hands of politicians and radical demagogues must be kept off business. Business conditions at the moment, he said, are the most favorable the United States has known since it entered the war, but, he pointed out, the United States would not be able to compete in this world market to come unless restraints to American industrial development were loosened "for the sake of an efficiency that will overcome a higher standard of living and still make us able to do business on the world's price level." He continued:

"We want enterprise relieved of the fearful penalties to which it is now subjected. We want a revision of the present income surtaxes that dam the natural flow of wealth in the channels of wealth-producing enterprise and divert it into tax-exempt investments that mean State and municipal non-productive development and waste. We want economy in Government expenditures that will bring relief from taxation as fast as it can be given. We want the oppressive hand of the Government taken off of business and freedom given to individual enterprise.

"We want the Government out of the shipping business where, at enormous cost, it has been proved, at least, that such oppressive measures as the Seamen's act prevent any profitable operation of an American merchant marine, and we want the Government out of every other business because every experiment in Government management demonstrates its disqualifications in that field.

"We want to see a chance given to our railroads, which constitute the very arteries through which commerce must flow. We want recognition given to the fact that these railroads, although laboring under great difficulties, have been handling the largest volume of traffic in the history of the country in a most efficient manner. You and I know that the railroads cannot go on indefinitely financing for the purchase of equipment and the improvement of their service through borrowing 3 cents of their requirements and obtaining 1¼ cents from stockholders, which is the record of the past four and one-half years. You and I know that railroad credit must be so restored that a portion of their capital requirements may always be met by the sale of stock, and to do this railroads must be allowed to earn profits that will give their stocks a standing high enough to attract new money in a competitive market. I view with alarm the most dangerous conditions for the future that the guarantees contained in the Esch-Cummins Railroad act shall be maintained."

J. H. Puelicher, President of the association, justified the capitalistic system as having "brought to all the people more comfort and greater leisure than has any other system thus far tried," and attacked the various schools of radicals. Addresses were made by Samuel E. Beach, of Rome, N. Y., and W. R. Morehouse of Los Angeles. Mrs. Helen M. Brown, Secretary of the Michigan Bankers' Association, was elected President of the State secretaries' section and was appointed to the Resolutions Committee.

All possible contests in tomorrow's elections were eliminated today and there will be but one ballot. Walter W. Head of the Omaha National Bank, now First Vice President, will be elected President, William H. Knox, President of the Bowery Savings Bank of New York, now Second Vice President, will be elevated to the First Vice Presidency and Oscar Wells, President of the First National Bank of El Paso, Tex., will be named as Second Vice President. Francis H. Sisson, President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, who was mentioned for the Second Vice Presidency in 1922, which is the stepping-stone to the Presidency of the organization, announced his withdrawal late today, leaving the field clear to Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

"I am the man who had mattresses installed in the beds in station houses in Chicago and after my bitter experience of last night I shall attempt to do the same thing here," Dr. Gilman said after he had been paroled in his own custody for appearance in the Municipal Court before Justice Jacob Panken.

He was dispossessed Monday morning by City Marshal Henry H. Lazarus for failure to pay his rent. Gilman, however, appealed to Justice Panken and received a stay. Herbert C. Dycke, agent for the owner of the apartment building, ordered elevator service stopped. Dr. Gilman countered by hiring four huskies to move a piano into his apartment. But they were driven out as trespassers. When he could not get his furniture back late his apartment Gilman called a policeman and a representative of the Edison Company. Together they forced their way into the cellar of the apartment house seeking the meter of Gilman's apartment. But the agent appeared again and appealed to the policeman to arrest Gilman. The Edison Company man was released at the police station. Gilman first was locked up on a charge of trespassing but this later was changed to disorderly conduct. He threatened legal redress.

COUNT APPONYI TO LECTURE

Count Albert Apponyi, Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Hungarian Parliament, will arrive on the Aquitania on Friday to make a tour of this country to acquaint the American people with conditions in Europe. His daughter, the Countess Julia, is with him. While here they will stay at the St. Regis.

The Count was invited here by the All-American Committee and the Institute of International Education. He will appear principally before the universities and public bodies, and will deliver his first lecture in the New York Chamber of Commerce at noon, Oct. 4.

Although Mayor Edwin W. Fiske of Mount Vernon, assisted by five policemen, bombarded thousands of grackles living in the trees on Chester Hill with roman candles, and though the birds vanished for a time, hundreds of them returned yesterday.

Mayor Fiske has ordered twelve dozen more roman candles and sky-rockets, and some clear night he will send another pyrotechnic volley into the trees in an effort to frighten the grackles away for good.

The Mayor has received a letter from S. C. Bishop, zoologist at the State Museum, in which Mr. Bishop says that the nightly use of a shotgun loaded with blanks has worked successfully in some cases. W. S. Rodgers of Springfield, Ohio, has written Mayor Fiske that his city is also besieged by grackles and asks how to get rid of them.

"I have got to find out the remedy," said the Mayor, "before I can guarantee anything to any other city."

PERSIA'S 'NO' KEEPS ARTICLE X. INTACT

She Casts Only Vote in Assembly Against Canadian Interpretation.

13 COUNTRIES FAIL TO VOTE

Hope is Still Held That Persia May Reconsider Action—Question is to Go to Council.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—Persia's "no" in today's session of the League Assembly prevented the interpretation of Article X. of the covenant, which had been worked on for four years and was last week adopted in committee and approved by Canada, from becoming an official ruling. Twenty-nine States voted for the interpretation as drafted, thirteen abstained and Persia voted against it. As the rules of the Assembly require that interpretative resolutions shall be unanimously adopted, though amendments need only a two-thirds majority, the resolution does not become effective.

There is still a chance that the Persian delegate may receive instructions from his Government to change his vote and he has cabled for instructions. But even then it is not certain that Panama, whose delegate abstained from voting today, will not oppose the interpretation.

It was known that some of the smaller countries, and especially the small Baltic States, were unwilling to take any risk of what they believe to be a weakening of Article X., but the attitude of Persia and Panama was a surprise.

Prince Mirza ed Dowleh based his objection on the geographical position of Persia, surrounded by nations which were not members of the League. He said that Persia's position was the opposite of that of Canada, with great seas on either side of her and the whole British Empire to defend her, was asking the privilege of abstaining from taking an active part in defending any fellow member of the League—a course which she would not be asked to take until the League had pronounced that it was just and vital. Persia, he said, was without a safeguard of any sort, and it was therefore natural that she should attach the greatest importance to the protection given her by Article X. He could not therefore accept the proposed interpretation unless it was first submitted to the Court of International Justice.

Señor Amador of Panama followed this announcement with the statement that he had received instructions from his Government "to oppose forcibly any action which would restrict the action of Article X. by amendment or even by resolution."

These two speeches were followed by long arguments from French, British, Dutch, Swiss and Greek delegates to show that the interpretative resolution in no way affected the protective strength of Article X. There were short speeches, too, from the Esthonian and other delegates to the effect that they would abstain from voting. Appeals were made to the Persian and Panaman delegates to take up this attitude so as to allow the resolution to become effective, and to this course Señor Amador consented.

Prince Mirza, as always, anxious to oblige, asked for a postponement of the vote, but to this Sir Lomer Gouin of Canada would not consent. He would not take the risk of postponement, and a vote was taken which was 19 to 13 against adjournment. This decision to fight generally is believed to have been most unfortunate, as there is good reason to believe that the Persian Government will consent to the interpretation if and when the proposed resolution approving the negotiations for a treaty guaranteeing mutual defense has been passed. Venezuela, Panama, Costa Rica and Haiti were among the abstaining States, which included also Czechoslovakia, Poland, Siam, Albania and the Baltic States.

After the voting President Torriente ruled that the resolution had been neither accepted nor rejected, the Assembly having failed to be unanimous and at the same time not having voted for a compromise. It was understood tonight that the Canadian delegation is prepared to wait a few days in the hope of an alteration of the Persian vote before taking any further steps in the matter.

In the Disarmament Commission this afternoon there was a stiff debate between Colonel Fequin of France and Lord Robert Cecil as to whether the temporary mixed commission which for the past two years has been examining the disarmament problem should be dissolved. The French Colonel argued that it had completed its work and hinted that it had become a body of rather irresponsible persons with whom, as they did not represent their Governments, the French Government could no longer have dealings. Lord Robert Cecil insisted warmly that there was still work to be done, and, after M. Gouin had refused a compromise on the resolution, consented to a postponement of the vote on the matter till tomorrow.

ONE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

John Holahan, Tenth Avenue and Thirteenth Street, was killed, and four others were injured early yesterday, when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a telegraph pole at Hudson Boulevard and Seventeenth Street, West New York, N. J.

Those injured were John Egan, his wife and their 8-year-old daughter, of West New York, and William Bartell of 538 West Thirty-ninth Street, this city. They were removed to the North Hudson Hospital, where the condition of the woman and child was said to be serious. Bartell told the police that Holahan was operating the car.

A man and three women were injured when the automobile in which they were riding at Lexington Avenue and 130th Street was in collision with a surface car. They were Nicholas Albergalo, owner of the automobile; his wife and daughter, of 436 East 136th Street, the Bronx, and Mrs. Nicolletta Domenf of 2,204 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx. They were taken to the Harlem Hospital.

William Fisher of 949 Park Avenue, West New York, N. J., got a fractured skull, and his son, Antone, was injured internally, when their motorcycle sidecar crashed into a bus at Jefferson and West Seventeenth Streets, West New York.

SYRIAN UNREST GROWS.

Natives Plan to Boycott Election Ordered Under French Mandate.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Sept. 25.—Reports which have evaded the French censorship in Syria suggest that another clash of wills between the French and the Syrians in the Syrian Confederated States is at hand. The Syrian Confederation embraces what may be termed Greater Syria, excluding the Lebanon. The States of Damascus and Aleppo, though separate entities, are to have a Federal Government, which is to be elected by the Syrians. Preparations for the election of this Federal body are proceeding, but during the last few days there has been determined opposition to holding it at this juncture, as the Syrians have neglected to define the powers and duties of the new Assembly, and the Syrians profess to see in it nothing but a factory for the manufacture of laws dictated by the French, which the latter did not wish to impose upon the Syrians except through the medium of a Syrian Governing Council. The Syrian organizations are now conferring on means to insure the success of their proposed boycott of the elections.

Acts Part of Beggar, But Accepts No Alms, To Gain Pity of the Wealthy in Berlin

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The strange case of Karl Neudack, who walked the streets of Berlin as a beggar, yet never accepted alms, has come to the attention of the police. The case is furnishing an interesting topic for local students of psychology.

Regularly employed as a chemist in a manufacturing establishment, Neudack spent his evenings and holidays on the Kurfurstendamm, Berlin's most fashionable boulevard, dressed as a mendicant. Sometimes his head was tied up to give him the appearance of an invalid; occasionally he would appear with his arm in a sling, and at other times he wore blue glasses. His clothes were always shabby, he walked as though badly crippled, and, when spoken to, he would produce a card saying he was deaf and dumb.

While suspicious of his conduct, the police were never able to catch him soliciting alms, but finally arrested him as a suspicious character. To the police surgeons who examined him, his explanation was that he greatly enjoyed being pitied by wealthy and well-dressed Berliners, and took much satisfaction in declining money offered to him.

He was released under a pledge to assume no more disguises.

REPUBLICANS DELAY SLATE FOR JUDGES

NEW CANDIDATES APPEAR

Bronx Committee Presents Name of Assistant Federal District Attorney W. J. Millard.

The difficulty the Republicans are experiencing in finding candidates of sufficient calibre to oppose Democratic candidates for the Supreme Court this Fall will probably force an adjournment of their judicial convention which was to have been held on Saturday until next Monday evening. The Democrats had fixed their judicial convention for next Monday and by delaying their selection until the same day the Republican leaders hope to be able to get a better line on whom their opponents will nominate.

The Republican and independent organizations continued yesterday to comb the city's list of lawyers for new material. The Republican County Committee of the Bronx came forward with two additional candidates. They are Owen N. S. Tierney and William J. Millard. Formerly an assistant Corporation Counsel, Mr. Millard is at present an Assistant United States Attorney. He rendered valuable service to United States Federal District Attorney William Hayward in the recent prosecution of bucket shop cases. The New York Republican County Committee have already submitted a list of twenty-four names to the non-partisan Judiciary Committee of the Bar Association and will hand in another list today. This additional list, it was said, will contain the names of many prominent lawyers.

Although Tammany Hall has been invited to furnish a list of its own, Leader Charles F. Murphy ignored the request for a non-partisan selection, and only stanch Tammany lawyers will be nominated.

Murphy is having troubles of his own over the selection of a candidate for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals and is giving all his time to making this selection. The candidates for this office will be nominated by the Democrats and Republicans respectively at their State Committee meetings on Friday. The Republicans are willing to endorse Justice Lehman if he is nominated by the Democrats, and although Murphy is said to be willing to agree to the selection of Justice Lehman, certain up-State factions of the party have candidates of their own.

The principal up-State fight on Murphy is being made by Franklin D. Roosevelt, his candidate for the Court of Appeals nomination, John E. Mack, former District Attorney of Dutchess County, who was appointed a guardian of Guy Stillman during the Stillman divorce proceedings. At Tammany Hall it was said yesterday that the situation would not be clarified up until after the arrival here tomorrow and Thursday of the up-State leaders. A committee of German-American citizens, some of them representing the Steuben Society, called on Murphy and urged the candidacy of Alfred J. Amend of the Bronx. He is a brother of former Supreme Court Justice Amend.

A delegation from the Brooklyn Bar Association visited the Republican executive committee of Kings County yesterday and asked their support in the renomination of Supreme Justice Isaac M. Kapper. It was said at the meeting that Justice Kapper would receive the support of the Democrats.

Among the delegates were Meier Steinbrink, former Assistant United States Attorney General; former Justice Abel G. Blackmar; William T. Horwill; former County Judge Charles J. McDermott and Ralph Jacobs. They afterwards separately called by the Republican committee and pointed to Justice Kapper's fourteen years' record as evidence of his fitness for office. A. H. Eastmond, long active in Democratic politics, who helped nominate Justice Kapper when he first took office, vigorously opposed his renomination yesterday. He advised the Republicans to run their own candidate.

Jacob H. Livingston, Republican Chairman; former United States Senator William M. Calder and Frederick J. H. Kracke, Appraiser of the Port of New York, were among the committee men present. Consideration of the associations' appeal was adjourned to Friday. There seemed some doubt at the meeting that the association's request would be acted on favorably.

PRINCETON REOPENS.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 25.—Princeton University inaugurated its 177th academic year with formal exercises in Alexander Hall here this afternoon. It was announced by the Registrar this evening that the total enrolment of the university will approximate 2,100, the same figure as last year.

Professor Radcliff Heermance, Director of Admissions, said this afternoon that 628 applicants had been admitted to the freshman class, and two or three more might be accepted during the week. There were more than 1,200 freshman candidates. Of 600 applicants for transfer from other colleges, only forty have been admitted.

In his opening address this afternoon President Hibben declared that education was the one hope of the world today, and he referred to the new plan of elective upper class study as Princeton's contribution "to quicken the spirits of our young men to equip them for the larger and the true responsibilities of that type of American citizenship which is capable of world service."

THINKS PLANT SALE FAVORABLE TO FORD

White House Says Amount Realized Could Be Deducted From His Cash Payment.

BUT DETROIT IS SKEPTICAL

Doubts He Will Make Any Further Bids for Muscle Shoals Project—Farmers Attack Deal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Coolidge Administration is to be attacked in Congress and out for its action yesterday in selling the Gorgas steam plant, an auxiliary of the Muscle Shoals power project in Alabama, to the Alabama Power Company for $3,672,487. There have been indications that protests would be made in behalf of Henry Ford, whose offer to buy or lease the entire Muscle Shoals project has been referred to Congress, and today Gray Silver, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation, came out in a statement in which he charged that the sale to the Alabama Power Company was made at this time to forestall action by Congress, and that the result of the sale is to give to a private company opportunity to exploit the public.

At the White House, following a Cabinet meeting, a spokesman of the President defended the sale of the Gorgas plant. He said that the sale had no bearing on Mr. Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals project. The plant sold was a steam plant, designed to furnish auxiliary power, it was pointed out, while Mr. Ford's interest was in water power. It was said also that whatever was realized from the sale of the steam plant would be credited to the offer made by Mr. Ford of $5,000,000 cash down. Furthermore, it was contended, Mr. Ford could erect a plant to take the place of the Gorgas plant for about $1,000,000, thus effecting a considerable saving from his offer to the Government.

It was explained officially yesterday in connection with the announcement of the sale that the Alabama Power Company had declined to extend its option to the Government to remove the plant or sell it, and that the sale had therefore to be made. According to the White House spokesman, the Government would have lost a considerable sum if it had removed the plant, which would have meant scrapping it, as the scrapped material would not have sold for more than $1,000,000.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Sale of the Gorgas steam power plant to the Alabama Power Company probably means that Henry Ford will make no further bid for the remaining Government properties at Muscle Shoals, Ala., it was learned here today. Mr. Ford himself was not at his Dearborn offices today and could not be reached to discuss the action of the Government in disposing of part of the Muscle Shoals property.

At the Ford offices, however, it was pointed out that Mr. Ford recently had made it plain that the Gorgas plant was considered vital to the economical operation of the Muscle Shoals property.

EINSTEIN TEST MAY FAIL.

Swarthmore Men Fear Clouds Obscured Eclipse Pictures.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Doubt as to whether photographs of the star field surrounding the sun, taken by the expedition of Swarthmore College during the recent solar eclipse, will have any scientific value in determining the truth of the Einstein theory was expressed today by members of the party upon their return from Mexico, where the pictures were taken.

Professor Ross Marriott stated that clouds had obscured the sun for a great part of the time and that shadows of these clouds were clearly visible on many of the plates. According to Professor Marriott, but 50 per cent. of the entire work will have any scientific value.

Only those showing the gaseous corona about the sun were referred to by Professor John R. Miller, in charge of the expedition, when he spoke of the experiments being "95 per cent. perfect," Professor Marriott said.

The theory upon which the so-called "Einstein plates" were made was that if light has weight its deviation from the path about the sun on account of gravity would be shown by photographs.

Professor Marriott said that due to the great amount of work involved it probably would be several months before definite announcement as to the outcome of the expedition could be made.

RUSSIAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Bearded Organist Was Ruined by the Bolsheviki.

Despondent at the havoc wrought in Russia by the Bolsheviki, Peter S. Nirka of 22 Crown Street, Waterbury, Conn., organist of the Russian Greek Orthodox Church there, committed suicide yesterday by turning on two gas jets in a room he engaged on Monday night at 327 East Fourteenth Street.

The Russian wore a long beard, and apparently had been of high standing in Russia. He suffered reverses through the revolution and appeared very bitter at the Bolsheviki. A watch with an inscription in Russian presented to Nirka by a group of admirers was found in the room.

DYING, HELD AS AUTO THIEF.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Charged with grand larceny and guarded by two members of the Pelham Manor police, John McCurren, 1,426 Unionport Road, the Bronx, is dying in the New Rochelle Hospital from injuries received when he was thrown through the windshield of an automobile said to have been stolen in New York yesterday afternoon.

About 7 o'clock last night, the police say, McCurren, accompanied by Philip Carver of the same address, while intoxicated and driving the car at high speed, collided with a tree near the Ash Tree Inn, Pelham Manor. The police learned that the stolen car belonged to A. Kolas, 2,528 Poplar Street, the Bronx.

STOCK EXCHANGE FIRM SUBPOENAED

DEERY ON STAND AGAIN

In a bankruptcy hearing yesterday at which Referee Harold F. Coffin displayed impatience with the testimony of some witnesses and at the non-appearance of others, evidence was brought out that a Stock Exchange house had helped to finance a loan to Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell shortly before the Raynor firm failed.

Referee Coffin ordered subpoenas to be issued for the members and staff of the New York Stock Exchange house of Raymond, Gilroy & Co., formerly Raymond, Shaw & Co. Shortly before, Mr. Coffin had directed that a subpoena be issued for Register James McQuade of Kings County, directing his appearance at the next hearing, Oct. 9. If the Register's brother, Edward McQuade, member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, whom process servers have been unable to find, has not been found by that time, the Register will be asked to supply information as to his whereabouts. The fact that Louis Gilbaugh, alleged to have obtained $36,000 in commissions as agent in deals of Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell, had not been found after a search of months, drew the fire of the referee and of William Abramson, attorney for the trustee.

Lawyer Charges Bucketing.

When James Lynch, Secretary of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, took the stand, Abramson charged that members of the Exchange were shielding Gilbaugh, a member. "Whenever I telephoned his office I was told he was there," said Abramson. "I would say I'd be there in a few minutes. When I got there they would tell me he had not been there for months. If I telephoned the Exchange I was told he was out to lunch and would be right back. When I got there I was told he had not been around for weeks. Gilbaugh was used by Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell in bucketing orders and in a period of ten months he received $36,000 in commissions for bucketed orders."

Referee Coffin asked Lynch for names of members of the Exchange now wanted as witnesses in various bankruptcy hearings. He named Louis Gilbaugh, Benjamin A. Guilbert, Alexander Herman, Harry Glaser, R. L. Chapman, L. De Cordova and I. W. Brandt. James Quillan, Consolidated member, said that his brother-in-law, Edward McQuade, also a member, was now in Chicago. He said that Register McQuade was a brother of the missing witness. The referee ordered a subpoena for the Register.

Edward Hoofman, an auditor for the Seaboard National Bank, produced records showing that a total of twenty-seven loans had been made by that institution to Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell, the largest $80,000, was in January of last year. During that month the bank made five loans, totaling $189,000 to the brokerage firm. The brokers pledged with the bank securities that customers had placed with the firm.

$90,000 Liberty Bonds in Loan.

On March 6 the bank turned the securities over to Deery when Deery presented his certified check to meet the Raynor firm's loan. Deery testified he sold the securities, among them $90,000 worth of Liberty bonds, turning over to Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell the balance remaining after he had deducted the sum of the Seaboard loan and his own commission.

"What was the condition of your account with Raymond, Shaw & Co. at that time?" asked Abramson.

"About $40,000," replied Deery.

He said that in his telephone talk with the Stock Exchange house anent the proposed loan he did not tell Raymond, Shaw & Co. for whom he was obtaining the money. When he was reminded that in previous hearings he had testified that Raymond, Shaw & Co. were apprised of the fact that the funds were for Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell, Deery changed his testimony to accord with that of the previous hearing.

"Do you know that customers did not authorize brokers to sell collateral?" asked Referee Coffin.

"That is not a fact," protested Deery.

"Did you ask whether they had authority to sell their customers' collateral?" pursued the referee.

"No. I wasn't interested. All I wanted was my commission."

"You didn't care whether the customers' securities were stolen?"

"I didn't think there was any stealing. I had done business a long time with Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell and had found them all right."

McHie & Co. Refused to Act.

It was brought out that the letter of authority to Deery had previously been delivered to Sidmon McHie & Co., a member of which was the treasurer of the Consolidated Stock Exchange. This firm refused to take up the securities from the bank. Its name was erased from the letter of authority and that of Deery's concern typewritten in its stead.

"It is very significant that this letter first went to McHie & Co., a member of which was treasurer of the Consolidated," commented Referee Coffin.

Deery's testimony was suspended to permit examination of Paul Meyer, manager of Raymond, Shaw & Co., and now in the same capacity with Raymond, Gilroy & Co.

"Did you know what securities you were going to get?" Abramson asked Meyer.

"Yes," said Meyer.

"You knew they were not Deery's securities?"

"I thought they were Deery's securities we were getting. He came to us and said he wanted to take up the loan. We had financed him on many occasions."

When Meyer declined to accompany a representative of the trustee to the offices of Raymond, Gilroy & Co., so that they might pick out the man who had accompanied Deery and Truesdell to the bank, the Referee ordered subpoenas be prepared for the firm members and employes. James M. Shaw, New York Police Commissioner, was a member of the firm succeeded by Raymond, Gilroy & Co. Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell failed on April 29, 1922, for $1,800,000.

SUBSTITUTE PLANE TO RACE.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Sept. 25.—The American reserve seaplane piloted by Lieutenant Frank W. Wead will be substituted in the Schneider Cup race for seaplanes on Sept. 28 for the plane wrecked yesterday near Portsmouth during a trial flight.

The United States will thus be represented by three machines, the original number, but the chances of England retaining the cup are regarded by the experts as greatly increased owing to the fact that the wrecked plane was America's most powerful entry, said to be capable of making 170 miles an hour. The plane admitted, substituted from British entries, of which there will be only two, inasmuch as one of the fastest British machines entered for the competition was disabled by an accident recently.

Lieutenant A. Worthington Gorton, who was piloting the American plane alone at the time of the accident, clung to the wreckage for more than an hour before he was rescued. He had completely recovered today from the effects of his trying experience. The seaplane has been beached at Southsea, but it will be impossible to repair it in time for the race.

Although his left foot had been fractured by the weight of a large motor truck, Lawrence O'Connell, 56, a motorman, of 165 East Eighty-seventh Street, ran his car one block to Broadway and Twenty-third Street yesterday afternoon to prevent a tie-up of traffic. O'Connell got off his car at Broadway and Twenty-third Street, and one of the wheels passed over his foot.

Traffic was heavy on the thoroughfare and he climbed back to the platform and operated the car onto a siding. Then he was taken to Bellevue Hospital in an ambulance. The chauffeur of the truck drove off after the accident. A general alarm was sent out for him by the police, who got the license number of the vehicle from witnesses of the accident.

BOND PLOT INVOLVES CLERK IN CITY BANK

District Attorney Wants Him to Explain Disposal of Cincinnati Loot.

SAID TO BE ON A VACATION

President Mitchell of National City Bank Says Man Sought is Not an Important Employe.

Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings admitted yesterday that one of the men being sought in connection with the disposal of $100,000 in bonds stolen by yeggmen last November from a safe in the office of the Southern & Western Life Insurance Company at Cincinnati, Ohio, was connected with the National City Bank. Mr. Hastings added that he was not a "big man" in the bank.

"I know his name and the position he holds," said Mr. Hastings. "He is supposed to be on vacation from the bank at the present time. Eventually we expect to get him to explain his part in the transaction."

Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Bank, admitted last evening that he had heard that the name of an employe of the institution had been mentioned in connection with the District Attorney's investigation of the alleged plot, but aside from saying that the man was not an important employe, he refused to discuss the matter.

Mr. Hastings said that he was convinced that the officials of the bank were not aware that the men had taken any part in the plot. The charge has been made that the man was the "outlet" for part of the stolen bonds which were alleged to have come into the possession of Robert A. Franks, Jr., son of the Vice President and Treasurer of the Carnegie Foundation. Franks is the fourth man arrested in the case and is now awaiting a hearing in the Tombs Court under $10,000 bail.

"The main thing that we are after now is to get out who stole the bonds that Franks and the other men under arrest were alleged to have tried to dispose of," said Mr. Hastings. Franks's attorney, Emory R. Buckner, has promised us that Franks will give us all the information he has.

"I confidently expect that Franks will do as his attorney promised he would do—make a clean breast of everything within his knowledge. I expect to go before the Grand Jury in this matter on Friday. The reason why that time is due to the fact that some of the witnesses must be subpoenaed from as far as Cincinnati."

Layton E. Merwin, the fifth man arrested in connection with the plot, was held in $10,000 bail for a hearing on Oct. 5 when he was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate James Barrett in the Tombs Court. He was charged with having criminally received $22,000 worth of the stolen bonds. Assistant District Attorney Sabatino told the court that Merwin had agreed to the adjournment of the case until that date, when Franks will be arraigned for a hearing on the same charge.

Before his arraignment Assistant District Attorney Hastings said that Merwin had told him "I was brought into this thing by Franks and I just trailed along." Mr. Hastings also quoted Merwin as saying that he was merely a twig in the plot and that Franks was the "trunk."

William H. McAvoy and John and Hugh H. MacEwan, brothers, were indicted two weeks ago on a similar charge and are now in the Tombs under $10,000 bail each. McAvoy is a step-brother of Justice John V. McAvoy of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and a son of Thomas F. McAvoy, Tammany leader of the Washington Heights district. They declared on their arraignment in General Sessions that they did not know the bonds had been stolen.

SUE PACKERS FOR PENSIONS

Pensioners Ask Morris-Armour Merger for $7,000,000 Fund.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A suit for an accounting of the pension fund of Morris & Company, packers, whose plants and business were bought by Armour & Company, in March, was filed here today in the names of twenty-two Morris pensioners against the two packing companies.

The bill demands the restitution of $700,000 alleged to have been wrongfully paid out at the time of the merger and the establishment of a $7,000,000 trust fund to care for the pensions.

The suit is the first legal action attempted to maintain the Morris funds for pensioners, who numbered 500 or more, and for whom no provision was made under the merger agreement. The funds, at the time of the merger last March, were estimated to provide for pensions to continue about fifteen months.

The Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago and the Chase National Bank and the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York, were made defendants, according to attorneys, due to their failure to bring their records into court.

FIFTH AV. CORNER SOLD.

William H. Peckham, real estate dealer, of 299 Madison Avenue, announced yesterday that he had sold for Bing & Bing the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street, 54 by 141, to A. D'Antona, who, it is said, will erect an apartment house on the site. The plot at present is occupied by the home of Mrs. Rachel L. Porter. It is estimated that the land and building will cost $1,750,000.

The present sketches show apartments of one, two and three rooms. This property adjoins the apartment hotel recently built by the sellers of the land. Several other apartment houses have been completed or are in course of construction in the immediate vicinity.

Falling Scaffold Kills Three.

Two boys and a man were killed when a painters' scaffold fell to the street from the third floor of the building at 86 Pacific Street, Newark, yesterday. The boys were James de Falco, 9 years old, of 149 Oliver Street, and Frank Cirillis, 10 years old, of 171 Oliver Street. The man was Harold Johnson of Orange. They were passing beneath the scaffold when it fell.

In parts it is very funny and in parts fairly revelatory of pretty maidens. The few attempts to essay the spectacular, generally considered a component part of the revue form of entertainment, are disastrous.

There are, first, Mr. Bernard and Mr. Collier, ever so much funnier, as is their and went, of manner than of material. To them fall most of the niflies, of which some are new and of which others have their roots in antiquity. Mr. Collier, moreover, doubles as the author of several of the show's sketches, in which again the good is mingled with the bad. The two stars are probably at their best in Mr. Collier's "Keep Off the Grass."

Ray Dooley is genuinely funny all the time she is on the stage. Similar comment can, however, not be made of Theresa Aben, who shares several of her scenes with her.

Hazel Dawn, as of old, plays the violin charmingly and reveals a not inadequate voice. In a so-so burlesque of "Rain" she does a splendid and almost uncannily true imitation of Jeanie Eagels.

The other features of the show include the Elm City Four and Frank Crumit, in effective and typical quartette numbers, an unbelievable ballet number unbelievably called "Mister Butterfly," a loud and vulgar soubrette, Van and Schenck, in their familiar manner and more or less familiar songs, Lina Basquette, a charming toe dancer who made her New York debut in "Jack and Jill" last season, and the Breens, specialty dancers of the vaudeville type.

The new show has much more comedy than the average revue offering. For the rest, it failed to arouse much interest in at least one observer.

NEW SINGER AT CENTURY.

Demetrio Onofrei Makes His Debut Here in "La Boheme."

Fortune Gallo introduced a fifth new singer at the Century last evening, when a double bill, including "La Bohème" for the first time and a repeated ballet to Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony, held a large audience close up to midnight. Demetrio Onofrei made his début as Puccini's hero, while Anna Roselle sang Mimi as her second rôle in a fortnight, and others were Mme. Charlebois, Messrs. Valle, de Biasi, Interrante and Cervi, and Mr. Peroni conducted.

Mr. Onofrei, for whom apology was made owing to illness, sang Rodolfo's narrative and acted the light-hearted tragi-comedy with much success. He is a Rumanian by birth, educated in the university and conservatory at Bucharest and a veteran of four years in his country's army during the war. It was his ability as a singer in Italy that he was engaged for the San Carlo tour. His voice is more robust than the usual light tenor, and he will be heard with interest again.

"Casanova" opens at the Empire Theatre tonight.

"Business Is Sue," a new musical comedy by Robert B. Smith and Gus Edwards, opened in Wilmington, Del., last night.

The Neurological Institute has obtained all the boxes for the opening performance at the Metropolitan Opera House on Oct. 23 of Eleonora Duse's American tour. Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. August Belmont, Frank Munsey, Miss Ruth V. Twombly, Miss Mabel Choate, Mrs. Clarence Dillon, Harrison Williams and Charles Hayden are among those who already have subscribed for boxes.

The next to the last New York matinee of the Chauve-Souris was given at Jolson's Fifty-ninth Street Theatre yesterday afternoon. After a final performance here Saturday night the Balieff company will enter upon a three weeks' engagement in Boston and then the start of a coast-to-coast tour. "Magnolia" at the Liberty Theatre will end its New York engagement Saturday.

MUSIC NOTES.

Niels Bukh and twenty-eight members of Ollerup People's College gave a program of Danish folk songs, dances and gymnastics at a evening at the Town Hall, introduced with a speech by Dr. John H. Finley.

Leopold Auer, Tertius Noble, George H. Gartlan and Paul D. Cravath addressed a meeting at the Biltmore yesterday held by New York's Music Week Committee to organize a series of contests opening Oct. 15.

Mmes. Romanoff and Orshinikoff and Messrs. Yaroslavsky and Burliuk took part in the Russian Art League's benefit at the Art Center last evening for the earthquake sufferers of Japan.

George MacDonald has submitted $1,000 for a box at the Century to be occupied by Archbishop Hayes next Sunday night at John McCormack's benefit for the New York Foundling Hospital.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—There are strong indications of a disturbance in the process of formation over the old Bahama Channel which lies between Eastern Cuba and the Bahaman Islands.

It is probable that this disturbance will increase in intensity and move west, northwestward, in view of this situation, shipping in the Bahaman waters, Cuban waters and Florida straits have been advised, by radio to exercise every precaution. Northeast storm warnings were displayed at 10 p. m. from Jacksonville to Florida coast from Jupiter Inlet to Key West.

There have been showers within the last twenty-four hours in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, the Missouri and extreme upper Mississippi valleys and the Pacific States. Generally fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Downward Reaction on the Stock Exchange—France and Marks Both Advance.

Yesterday's movement of prices illustrated again the difference between the stock market and the foreign exchange market in their response to European news. The positive overnight announcement of Germany's surrender to the terms for a settlement in the Ruhr again found reflection in foreign exchange, where the franc advanced ¾ cent further, making a total recovery of ⅞ cent, or 16 per cent., from the low price of a month ago. But the stock market gave no sign of relief, not to say enthusiasm. The greater part of the list ended the day at net declines ranging from fractions to 2 or 3 points.

This stock market movement was not based on anything in the news, however, and it was not easy to take it any more seriously than the similar decline in the middle of last week or the advance which followed that decline. Resemblance to the somewhat transparent tactics employed on those other occasions was unmistakable. Half a dozen highly speculative stocks were selected as a target to which the energies of professional speculators should be directed. These were forced down without any help from sales by actual holders, but apparently with the pressure increased by stock of recent professional buyers which was dislodged and brought on the market. The day's achievement requires no further serious comment.

The rise of the franc in London yesterday was considerably more emphatic than in New York, but the course of other European exchanges was somewhat uneven. Sterling closed at Monday's price, Italian exchange a little lower. The mark, on the other hand, rose from a price at which one dollar would buy 137,000,000 to a price at which it commanded only 117,000,000. Under present conditions this sort of fluctuation has no meaning. All the real value the paper mark is likely to have hereafter will probably arise from the basis on which it may be accepted in exchange for other obligations.

Yesterday's further decline of ⅝ cent per pound in cotton, bringing the price to 29.10, or 1⅝ cents below the high point reached this season, seemed to cause surprise. Recognizing the force of the question whether mills could do business freely on the basis of 30 cents or more for cotton, when trade is only moderate in goods now selling on the basis of 22-cent cotton, it was nevertheless asked why the news of Germany's submission in the Ruhr should not have helped cotton prices. Prediction of that event was assigned as one basis for the rise from 28.70 cents to 30.75 last week, and yesterday's grain market insisted that the higher wheat prices were due to the Franco-German news.

But the probability is that the influence of such political news on either market has been greatly exaggerated. With the "Ruhr situation" at its worst Germany took from the United States in the seven months ending with July a larger quantity of cotton than any other country in the world. The decrease in Europe's total takings, as compared with 1922, was at least as much the result of a price nearly 50 per cent. above last year's as it was of political unsettlement. In the case of Germany, it is true that, despite the present higher prices, her $91,000,000 total exports to that country in the seven months period was less by some 45 per cent. than in the pre-war year. But something more than peace in the Ruhr would be necessary to repair that shortage.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 25, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money opened and renewed at 5 per cent., later advancing to 5½, but declined to 5 per cent. charge again before close. Most money was loaned at maximum, however. Fixed date funds were obtainable at 5½ per cent., quotation which has stood since last Friday; very little trading was reported.

SALVADOR PAYS 8% FOR $6,000,000 HERE

25-Year Bonds Will Be Offered by F. J. Lisman & Co. Next Month.

Negotiations for a loan of $6,000,000 to the Republic of Salvador have been concluded, according to announcement made yesterday, and the bonds are expected to be offered by F. J. Lisman & Co., a New York Stock Exchange house, early in October. Details of the offering have not yet been agreed upon, but it is expected that the issue will carry an 8 per cent. coupon and will mature in about twenty-five years.

New bond issues offered here include an issue of $1,000,000 Kansas Electric Power Company first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, due June 1, 1942. The bonds are being offered by a syndicate including Bonbright & Co. and W. C. Langley & Co., and the proceeds will be used for extensions, additions and improvements to plants and properties.

A new issue of $1,275,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. gold bonds of the Maher Collieries Company is being offered by a syndicate comprising Cassatt & Co., the Union Trust Company of Cleveland and Graham, Parsons & Co. The bonds are dated Aug. 1, 1923, and mature in equal annual instalments of $85,000 on Aug. 1, 1924, to 1938, inclusive. The 1924 to 1928 maturities are being offered at prices to yield 6½ per cent., while the later maturities are offered to yield about 7 per cent.

Redmond & Co. and Otis & Co. announce the sale of the entire issue of $2,500,000 Standard Plate-Glass Corporation first and refunding mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, due Sept. 15, 1943.

Three bids were received yesterday for the Province of Ontario bonds, according to advices from Toronto. A bid of $2,189 was received from a syndicate headed by the National City Company and Dillon, Read & Co., and one of $1,55 from the Bankers' Trust Company, on condition that the bonds were payable both in the United States and Canada. A bid of 95.399 was made by a Canadian syndicate headed by A. E. Ames & Co. on the condition that the bonds were payable in Canada.

Sees Where Roads Could Have Saved

N. D. Ballantine, speaking before the Traffic Club of New York last night, said that $62,000,000 was a conservative estimate of what could have been saved during 1922 in car distribution and freight car repairs under the proposals of the Association of Security Owners. He referred to the savings that might have been effected by railroads throughout the country through the adoption of the car pooling plan advocated by the association, which represents the owners of railroad securities.

OPPOSES CHANGES IN TRANSPORT ACT

Loomis Asks Lehigh Valley Stockholders to Bring Pressure on Congress.

E. E. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, yesterday made the first public move in the fight that railroad executives will wage before Congress to retain intact the Transportation act of 1920. This move is in direct contrast to the attitude earlier in the year of other railroad executives who then favored vital amendments in the act.

Throughout the financial district it is regarded as signifying that railroad executives throughout the country will make their stand on the present law rather than attempt to obtain improvements which they regarded as vital some months ago. The movement to make the fight against the so-called "radicals" in Congress on this issue has been gaining ground for months.

Advice has been generally circulated in railroad spheres that any opening up of the Transportation act at this time would be like carrying kindling to the fire of the "radical" group in Congress because it would give them a chance to make some of the changes they want.

In a letter sent to stockholders of his railroad and to executives of other roads throughout the country attention is called by Mr. Loomis to the safeguards that the Transportation act has provided for the public interest. The letter outlines the policy that will probably be followed at the next session of Congress by the railroad executives. The letter says in part:

"While revision of this transportation law in some of its phases may be desirable, it is quite generally felt that the carriers should be given a rest from political agitation, and legislation, and the public permitted to see what the railroads can do under existing laws before any additional experimental legislation is enacted.

"That the public, particularly the shipping public, is adequately recognized and protected under this act must be judged from the following facts included in its provisions.

1. Freight and passenger rates are fixed or controlled entirely by a Government commission.

2. Rates are required to be reasonable and to be fixed at levels which will give the owners a "fair return" on the value of property used for transportation purposes.

3. The value of the transportation property on which this "fair return" is based must be fixed by a Government commission.

4. Wages paid to labor are subject to supervision and control of a Government tribunal.

5. No stocks or bonds can be issued except with the approval of a Government commission.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Turns Downward.

Following three consecutive days of recovery, the stock market yesterday turned weak again under leadership of the steel, motor, equipment shares and miscellaneous specialties. At the close, losses of one to three points were recorded in thirty or more of the active stocks, while specialties of the type of Davison Chemical, du Pont, Burns Brothers A, scored larger declines. Industrial shares were weakest, but the railroad issues also dropped rather sharply. The average for fifty stocks lost yesterday approximately a point at the closing figure of 78.75 and at the day's lowest it had marked a new minimum for the current month to date. The low point of 78.60, however, is still above the low point for the year to date, established at the close of July. At the opening of business yesterday stocks were steady, but it did not take long for pressure to develop. Judging from the action of the tape, selling was concentrated in the four recognized leaders, Can. Steel common, Studebaker and Baldwin.

Steel Shares Near Year's Low Point.

While the entire market was weak yesterday, Steel common attracted attention because of its decline to 85⅞, which is only ⅝ of a point above the low record for the year. At its close the stock was down 1⅛ points, and shares of the independent companies dropped from 1⅛ to 2⅜ points. Most of the selling was described as speculative, but it was reported in commission houses that the establishing of lower levels brought about some liquidation through the catching of stop orders which had been placed in the market during recent weeks, when it became evident that Autumn demand was not as large as expected. After the close of business figures were published in the financial district which show that in 21 days of September new business contracted for by the Steel Corporation averaged 31,931 tons daily, against 15,268 tons daily in the same period of August and 28,647 tons in July.

The Rise in the Franc.

The sharp rise in the franc yesterday brought the price back to a figure not touched since the middle of June. What equally interested the exchange market was that yesterday's price was higher than the market touched on Jan. 29, only a week or two after the French had entered Essen. From a rate of 7.44 cents on Jan. 2, just before the assembling of the abortive Paris conference, the franc declined to 5.99¾ on the last day of that month. It sold yesterday at 6.30¾. The exchange market's explanation of the movement, which has been much more emphatic in the franc than in any other part of the exchange market, was that the French exchange has been honeycombed with bear commitments, put out not only because of the dispute with Germany but on the chance of a breakdown in French public finance or of a disruption in the Entente.

Wheat Market and the Ruhr.

The rise in wheat prices at one time yesterday to $1.03¾, the highest of the month to date, was ascribed in the Chicago market to news of the coming settlement in the Ruhr. The price did not hold, however, and the grain trade was not inclined to take the argument very seriously. Our own Agricultural Department has lately estimated that Germany's grain crops this season will be 40 per cent. greater than in 1922; in addition to which there remains the doubtful question whether Russia will successfully manage to export considerable amounts of wheat this season, some of which would go to Germany.

Railway Earnings.

Railway shares gave no response to the highly favorable earnings reports published for August. The net earnings of New York Central were $7,137,420, as compared with $1,958,307 in the same month of last year, but it was recalled in the financial district that the expenses of the New York Central during August of 1922 were unusually heavy as the result of the shopmen's strike, which cut down net revenue more than one-half as compared with the same month in 1921. Even so, however, the month's net earnings this year were nearly $2,000,000 above 1921. The eight months' net earnings for railways which have reported for August are something like three times what they were in the same period a year ago.

Canadian Bonds for Canadians.

Chances of any portion of the $172,000,000 refunding operation of the Canadian Government reaching the United States diminished greatly yesterday with the announcement that the first offering of $50,000,000 made by a Canadian syndicate had met with a subscription of approximately $100,000,000, of which a large portion was cash. This offering was the first instalment of the refunding operation which must be completed very shortly. It was generally expected that the Canadian syndicate would be able to dispose of the first instalment or two, but that later the American bankers would have to be called in to complete the financing.

COTTON AGAIN LOWER IN ACTIVE MARKET

After quieting down for two days, the cotton market developed an increased degree of activity yesterday and this time at declining values. Liquidation spread as a result of weakness in securities, reports from dry goods quarters that the public is inclined to resist advances in manufactured goods and fine weather in the South. When prices rallied hedging pressure increased in volume, port receipts aggregating 95,000 bales. There has been a sensational rise the last two months, and the reaction of 2 cents in December from high records made last week was not surprising. Selling continued to the close, with the market rolling at the bottom, 46 to 65 points lower on the day.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
Oct.	28.26	28.30	28.10	28.12	28.62
Dec.	28.50	28.73	27.38	27.90	28.46

STEEL ORDERS INCREASE.

September Report Shows 31,191 Tons of New Business Daily.

New business contracted for by the United States Steel Corporation averaged 31,191 tons daily during the first twenty-one days of September, according to figures made public yesterday after a meeting of the Finance Committee. This compares with a daily average of 15,368 tons in the corresponding period in August and with 29,667 tons in July. It was explained that large orders were placed in the closing week of August, and it is too early to estimate just how September's business will compare with late month. The United States Steel Products Company, the export subsidiary, reports 21,532 tons of business booked in the week ended Sept. 21, the largest orders being for 12,500 tons of tubular goods, one totaling 12,000 tons.

It was said that a large increase had been made in steel ingot production, which now amounts to 90.2 per cent. of capacity, against 87.8 per cent. in the previous week. Blast furnaces continue to operate at about 85 per cent.

Reports of a competitive report that business has been increasing steadily, The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company and several others are operating at capacity. As improved demand for structural materials, bars and plates, while three leading staple articles, is also reported.

STRONG AT START, WHEAT ENDS LOWER

December Options Pass $1.05, but Long Grain Comes Out on the Bulge.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Canadian wheat is very close to six import basis into this country despite the thirty-cent per bushel duty and there were 80,000 bushels low grade worked to go to Minneapolis during the day.

The break of 15 cents in Winnipeg premiums of late, with a reduction of 10¼ cents today, brought No. 1 Northern down to 1½ cents over October at the last, with No. 2 Northern 1½ cents under and No. 3 Northern 3 cents under the future.

The market showed considerable strength early, advancing around one cent. December touching $1.05¼, up 4½ cents from the recent low point, but long grain came out freely on the bulge and the finish was at net losses of ¼@½ cent, with MAY leading.

September and May corn and December and May oats sold at a new high for the season today. Corn closed unchanged to ⅛ cent higher on the new crop and 1⅛ cents higher on September, while oats were ¼@¾ cent higher at the last, both markets reacting with wheat and on profit taking sales.

There has been persistent buying of both grains for several days and the uncovering of stop loss orders helped along the early bulge.

The belief prevails that stocks of old grain are practically exhausted; that movement of the new crop will not start until there is a freeze-up and that the new crop has been badly damaged.

Max N. Natanson and Mandelbaum & Lewine purchased from Townsend Pinkney both individually and as executor and trustee of the estate of Cornelius S. Pinkney, 700-718 Columbus Avenue, block front, on the west side, between Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth Streets, and having a frontage of 201 feet and a depth of 100 feet on each street. The property consists of ten four-story cold water flats, with stores on the ground floor. The property was held at $400,000 and was purchased for cash.

Charles Galewski resold to Louis Levy the Farnham Court, at 53 and 55 East Ninety-seventh Street, on plot 62 by 100, adjoining the corner of Madison Avenue. The structure is arranged for four families on a floor in five and seven room suites. The property shows an annual rental of $25,000 and was held at $200,000. A. H. Landley was the broker.

Frederick Zittell & Sons, Inc., has sold for the Hemwrid Holding Company 2,574 and 2,576 Eighth Avenue, two five-story tenements, each on plot 25 feet by 80 feet. The properties were held at $55,000.

J. Clarence Davies, Inc., sold for Arthur Pierce as trustee 60 East Seventy-seventh Street, a three-story dwelling, to Dr. Albert M. Beckary for occupancy.

Nosed Harris and Charles Sehnabel have purchased through Ryan & Co. the building 52 West Twenty-eighth Street, on a plot 20 by 50, adjoining the southeast corner of Sixth Avenue. The holding price was $50,000.

Julius Trattner sold for A. Osterhols to an investing client the five-story apartment house arranged for eight families and five stores at 695 Courtlandt Avenue, northwest corner of 154th Street, built on a lot 25 by 100.

A. Wolfson Company leased the West Fifteenth Street Garage, containing 50,000 square feet, for the Nabisco Garage, Inc., to Whitehead & Firte for a term of ten years.

Suburban Buyers.

Chauncey B. Griffen sold for Harry A. Smith the English stucco home, on Walworth Avenue, in the Greenacres tract at Scarsdale, to Bradford Darrach. The property was held at $38,000.

Astoria Buildings Sold.

Louis Gold & Co. sold to an investor two three-story business buildings at the northeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Ditmars Avenue, Astoria. The Tilrose Association were the brokers.

MAYOR HYLAN BETTER; AFFECTED LEG GAINS

Swelling Is Greatly Reduced and Patient Is Free From Pain —His Strength Grows.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The swelling in Mayor John F. Hylan's right leg, which resulted from the stoppage of the femoral vein by dead tissues resulting from the effort of his system to throw off the pneumonic poisoning was greatly reduced today, Dr. George F. Comstock, the principal examining physician, measured the leg, and found that it was only half an inch greater than the left leg.

The appearance of the leg indicated that the thrombus, or collection of dead tissues, was being absorbed, and that the phlebitis, or inflammation of the vein, was subsiding. There was no sign of any similar swelling in the left leg, as feared.

A bulletin signed by Drs. George F. and Carl R. Comstock, and issued at 11 A. M., read:

"Mayor John F. Hylan spent a comfortable night. The swelling of the right leg has receded to a large extent, and he is free from pain. The pneumonic condition has practically cleared. Temperature 98.1, pulse 82, respiration 20."

The Mayor continued to gain in strength and to develop more of an appetite. During the day he ate a broiled half chicken and some vegetables.

Discuss Plans for Crippled Children.

ELYRIA, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Plans for the care, cure and education of the crippled children of the world—of whom it is estimated there are more than 300,000 in the United States alone—were considered here today by delegates of the International Society for Crippled Children from twelve States and two Provinces of Canada. Another meeting will be held tomorrow.

MOST CUPBOARDS keep a critical eye on the china which dresses them. They will have nothing but the best. And they are wise. For the delight in an exquisite dinner service is practically boundless. A good pattern by a worthy maker is the only one you can afford to own; nameless china, which you will never be able to replace, is the kind that is too expensive to buy!

Dressing china cupboards well!

DRESSING the cupboard with Paris models at Martha-by-the-day prices is a luxury rarely encountered.

But during September, Ovington's can outfit the cupboard with a splendid wardrobe at little cost. All the best modes are offered. Dinner sets that are masterpieces; place plates as brilliant as a gown by Worth; tiny coffee cups of exquisite texture, and cosy tea cups for five o'clock, are among the opportunities offered to the hostess.

Coffee cups may be had at prices ranging from $12 to $20.

600 Beautiful Building Sites at Little Neck Hills

28 minutes from Penn. Station, with 64 trains daily. We strongly urge you to inspect the property today. It is high and rolling ground, most unusual for Long Island; largely covered with beautiful shade trees; convenient to stores and churches. Short distance from Little Neck Station and Bay. In short, a delightful all-year home centre.

To Be Sold at Auction
